West Area Sees Parley As Success

Europe Says War More Remote Now

London, July 25 (AP)—Western Europe took a Monday morning look at the Big Four summit conference today and pronounced it a success.

"It has made the risk of war more remote, has cleared some obstructions from the road to an agreement on Europe's future, and has given the west a clue to Russian intentions. These are valuable gains," said the liberal Manchester guardian.

Reaction ranged from such flat statements as "The Big Four have put an end to the cold war" in Paris' Socialist Le Populaire to the cautious editorial words of the Conservative London Daily Telegraph:

"SO LONG as the west does not allow the resulting relaxation of tension to lead to a relaxing of vigilance, Geneva should promote cool, realistic and long range thinking."

One man emerged from the conference as the dominant figure in the eyes of European observers — President Eisenhower.

"The big victory of this meeting was President Eisenhower," said Paris' Independent L'aurore. "He seduced even his political adversaries in America and has probably won the renewal of his lease at the White House."

IN BELGIUM the Catholic Gazet Van Antwerpen said, "The West has undertaken a psychological peace offensive thanks to the deeply human intervention of Eisenhower and his sensational proposal on disarmament control."

Twice, said London's Liberal News Chronicle, Eisenhower "hoisted the meeting to the true summit. Not a thousand speeches in Congress or the House of Commons, not a hundred intergovernmental notes, could have done what one man did, who could be seen and heard as he spoke."

THE COMMUNIST Daily Worker of London said "The people of the world have won a victory—history may even come to regard it as a famous victory."

Several British papers commented that the conference showed the importance of Marshal Georgi Zhukov's role in Russian affairs had been overestimated. The Soviet Union, these

Nation's Editors Praise Peace Promotion Efforts

(By The Associated Press)

(NY) The Geneva conference has won praise in many newspaper editorials throughout the country as an encouraging step toward world peace.

Editorials generally found the Big Four meeting had eased world tensions despite a lack of concrete accomplishments. Many particularly praised President Eisenhower for successfully conveying to the world the sincere and peaceful aims of the United States.

The President was for the most part credited with making a strategic advance in his proposal that the United States and Russia permit aerial inspection of their military installations. The editorials expressed little hope, however, that the proposal would be accepted.

Following are sample editorial excerpts:

Washington Post and Times-Herald—"If the prospect for stable peace is now brighter than in a decade, this is peculiarly a tribute to the force of Mr. Eisenhower's own warm personality, his dedication and his suppleness of mind. The President's performance at Geneva was executive leadership of the highest order."

The New York Times—"President Eisenhower, perhaps, won the moral victory at Geneva if there was such a victory. Nobody reading his words could doubt that he was full of goodwill toward all men and that therefore he honestly strove for peace. . . A third world war would be no solution. A modus vivendi to avoid that frightful tragedy is essential, and we now seem a little nearer to it."

Geneva Talk Slated For U.S., Red China

Washington, July 25 (AP)—The United States and Red China will send ambassadors to Geneva next Monday to discuss "repatriation of civilians" who want to return to their own countries and "certain other practical matters now at issue."

The State Department said U. Alexis Johnson, ambassador to Czechoslovakia, would represent the United States. Johnson is to fly to Washington for quick consultations with Secretary of State Dulles before the talks begin.

PRESS OFFICER Henry Suydam of the State Department reported India and Burma had arranged for the meeting in backstage discussions with Red China and the United States.

The "major purpose" of the Geneva meeting from the American view, Suydan said, will be to obtain the release of some 51 Americans held in Red China, including 15 American fliers.

An announcement of the talks, agreed upon with Red China via diplomatic channels, said:

"AS A RESULT of communication between the United States and the People's Republic of China through the diplomatic channels of the United Kingdom, it has been agreed that the talks held in the last year between consular representatives of both sides at Geneva should be conducted on ambassadorial level in order to aid in settling the matter of repatriation of civilians who desire to return to their respective countries and to facilitate further discussions and settlement of certain other practical matters now at issue between both sides."

The first meeting of ambassadorial representatives of both sides will take place on Aug. 1, 1955, at Geneva."

THE DEPARTMENT in a separate announcement emphasized that keying the talks to the ambassadorial level does

Farm Visit Helps Peace, Says Pravda

Moscow, July 25 (AP)—A Pravda correspondent today hailed the exchange of agricultural visits between United States and Russian farm delegations as a great success for the cause of peace.

E. Litoshko, who is touring Iowa with the Russians, took up a half page with his account, including a recitation of friendly greetings to the visitors from New York to the midwest.

"EVEN IN a brief period one can feel that deep friendly feeling which plain Americans have for the Soviet people," he said.

Many Questions To Be Answered

Geneva, July 25 (AP) — The four big powers today began the second stage of their attempt to ease world tension by negotiation. The experts back home in their own capitals started work on plans to implement the directives of the summit conference.

Each of the Big Four leaders, before leaving Geneva, professed confidence that their six-day meeting here had started them on the right road. Each also stressed the importance of the followup.

THE EXPERTS have much to do in the next few weeks to prepare for the discussions which the Big Four have scheduled for the late summer and fall.

They must take the many vague and conflicting proposals on disarmament, German unification and European security and see if they can find in them any basis for future negotiation. If they find such bases, they must try to fill out the skeleton proposals with details.

Under the schedule agreed on at the summit talks, the five-nation UN subcommittee on disarmament will meet in five weeks—Aug. 29—to consider the disarmament proposals advanced at Geneva.

THEN EARLY in October the Big Four foreign ministers will meet in Geneva to take up disarmament, German unification and European security.

Thus within nine or ten weeks the experts—and their bosses, the foreign ministers — must

CD Meeting Set On Evacuation

Civil defense officials of the state are due to meet next month, but the date of the session to be attended by Ulster county officials, has not been set yet, it was announced today.

Officials of upstate communities are to meet in Syracuse Aug. 3 and 4, Lt. Gen. Clarence R. Huebner (ret.) state civil defense director announced today.

The meeting is to include civil defense directors and their aides from all counties outside of Long Island, New York city and the city's support area, he said. In the support area are Ulster, Westchester, Putnam, Rockland, Orange, Sullivan and Dutchess counties. The meeting for these is to be held at a later date.

The meeting will be devoted largely to problems of evacuation.

"The kind of mass evacuation plan we must be thinking about," Gen. Huebner said, "is too new and too complicated to our present way of living to be produced by any but the most concerted thinking of all of us, who are in civil defense."

IKE AND MAMIE HOME—First to greet President and Mrs. Eisenhower on their arrival in Washington from Geneva are their three grandchildren, Dwight David, 8, Susan, 5, and Barbara Ann, 7, children of Maj. and Mrs. John Eisenhower. (NEA Telephoto).

Roundup of Area Fatalities

Drowning, Traffic Mishaps Claim Lives

The drowning of a 30-year-old New York city man in southern Ulster county was one of several fatalities reported in this and neighboring counties during the weekend.

There were also a number of vehicular accidents in the county, one a motorcycle mishap which broke the operator's hip and leg.

THE DROWNING, an account of which is carried elsewhere in The Freeman today, was in Tillson Lake near Pine Bush, just north of the Orange county line.

Orange county authorities were still investigating today the death of Mrs. Helen Durand, 35, of Middletown, whose badly-mangled body was found on the tracks of the Erie railroad at about 10 o'clock Sunday night. It was reported by the Middletown Police department that Coroner Kenneth Marsh of Port Jervis was conducting an investigation and might issue a verdict tomorrow.

A 28-year-old Civil Air Patrol pilot died yesterday when his light plane crashed and burned during a CAP flying contest at Monticello in Sullivan county. According to witnesses, the plane piloted by Patrick C. Stapleton of Bedford avenue, Monticello, went into a sudden dive after missing a baloon 100 feet above the ground. The pilots were trying their skills at striking floating baloons.

A VERDICT of accidental death due to a broken neck was returned in the death Mrs. Matthew Sciascia, 64, of Washington, D. C., in Poughkeepsie yesterday morning. Mrs. Sciascia was riding in a car driven by her husband, also 64, when the car skidded on wet pavement on South avenue, went over a curb and struck a tree, according to

Reds to Give Unity Voice To Germans

Berlin, July 25 (AP)—Nikita S. Khrushchev told East German Communists today they will have a voice in any plan to reunify Germany.

Khrushchev, the party chief of the Soviet Union, and Premier Nikolai Bulganin toured Saxony by automobile in the company of East German Communist government leaders.

ADDRESSING workers on bridge construction near Halle, Khrushchev declared:

"The German question cannot be solved without the Germans themselves. The Soviet Union will never join in any solution without the participation of the Germans."

The top Soviets have demanded that the eastern regime as well as the Bonn Republic sit with the Big Four foreign ministers on the German reunification question.

KHRUSHCHEV and Bulganin, halting here en route from the Geneva conference to Moscow, drove along the Elbe river area where the Soviet and American armies linked up a decade ago. They inspected a power plant in Dessau, a botanical institute in Bernburg and the giant former I. G. Farben chemical plant at Leuna, now nationalized as the property of the East German state.

East Berlin was decked with flags and bunting for the state visit, particularly on Unter Den Linden in the neighborhood of the Soviet Embassy where the leaders are staying. A "Red Square" rally has been organized for tomorrow evening to wind up the visit.

Bulganin and Khrushchev are visiting in Berlin en route home from the Geneva conference.

President Impressed With Soviet Attitude

(Telecast, Broadcast Tonight 10:30 EDT)

Washington, July 25 (AP)—President Eisenhower told Congressional leaders today that no secret agreements of any kind were made at the Big Four meeting nor were any "private papers" initialed.

MEMBERS OF Congress gave this word to reporters after a briefing at the White House by Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles on the President's sessions in Geneva with Russian, British and French leaders.

LATER, presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty similarly said the President had given assurance there were no secret agreements. In a formal statement, Hagerty said:

"The President expressed the belief that the outstanding feature of the (Geneva) meeting was the apparently sincere desire expressed by the Soviet delegation to discuss world problems in the future in an atmosphere of friendliness and a willingness to sit down together to work out differences.

"The President added that this, of course, is a hopeful development but quite naturally does not of itself warrant any relaxation of the mutual security measures we and our allies of the free world are now pursuing."

ASKED WHETHER China was discussed, Hagerty told reporters it was, but only in the ilght of a State Department announcement — made while the White House meeting was in progress — that ambassadorial representatives of this country and Red China will meet in Geneva next Monday to discuss repatriation of citizens and other matters.

This discusion, Hagerty said, was not related to a recommendation by Chairman George (D.-Ga.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that top U. S. and Red Chinese diplomats confer soon on Asiatic problems.

Hagerty said Secretary Dulles gave the Congress members a detailed presentation of the day to day discussions at Geneva and an analysis of the conference's final directive to the Big Four foreign ministers, who are to meet in October.

From the White House, Dulles went to the Capitol for a closed session with members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Britain Tightens Buying

London, July 25 (AP)—British today made it tougher to buy on the instalment plan. The government boosted the required down payment to a third of the total purchase price.

In a move to combat inflation threatening Britain's prosperity boom, Chancellor of the Exchequer Richard A. Butler told the House of Commons the minimum down payment on such items as automobiles, radios and TV sets would be raised from 15 to 33 1/3 per cent. Maximum repayment periods remain unchanged.

HE ALSO slashed expenditures on capital projects in nationalized industries. The new rules go into effect tomorrow.

Canada Fires Still Raging

Toronto, July 25 (AP) — Raging forest fires continued to spread today through northern Ontario's sun-baked woodlands. At least 154 fires were burning, 48 of them out of control.

More than 200,000 acres of timber — pine, balsam, spruce and maple — have been reduced to blackened stumps. Frank MacDougall, deputy minister of lands and forests, said the 6,000 men fighting the blazes were "like terriers chewing at an elephant." The situation is the worst in the province's history.

Wharton Against Gas Taxes

Says Interstate Road Plan Cuts Home Powers

A bill aimed at increasing gas taxes for interstate highway construction, is opposed by Congressman J. Ernest Wharton, 29th District, New York.

The bill will be hotly debated on the House floor before the month ends, the Congressman noted in a "Washington News Letter," released recently to the press.

Only a fraction of dollars collected in New York and other states by such a tax, he noted, would come "back home," and "Time and again legislatures and organizations have complained about this usurpation of a state's taxing power. I agree with them completely and I don't want to see the evil developed further."

The congressman said he seldom criticizes procedures of the House which he has served for five years, but he said, "I want to complain to my constituents which I oppose H. R. 7072, the Fallon bill."

Many have written that they want the bill rejected, he said, and he feels that most people will agree that he is right in his stand against it.

"Of course we all know," he wrote, "that the very congressmen who are promoting higher taxes this year, will be screaming for tax reduction next year as election approaches." He said he saw nothing wrong with the toll-road principle in the interstate super highway construction, because it would spread the cost among actual users of the road. The Fallon bill contains no such provision.

Still another indictment of the measure, he said, "is that it usurps power of the House Ways and Means Committee which traditionally is the body originating revenue rising measures. Why should the Public Works Committee, which is reporting the Fallon bill, propose tax revisions involving billions of dollars for nearly a 16-year span?"

Terms Geneva a Good Start

Adenauer Praises Arms Program of Eisenhower

Muerren, Switzerland, July 25 (AP)—West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer said today the Geneva conference was "a successful start toward the easing of world tension."

Adenauer, vacationing here, told reporters he hoped other such conferences would be held to pave the way for international peace. He said President Eisenhower's proposal for armament control "is of decisive importance."

"If the Soviets are genuine in their aim to disarm, they must take a stand on Eisenhower's proposal," Adenauer said.

"All four powers at Geneva stressed the importance of German reunification to the stabilization in Europe," he continued, adding that this stabilization would help ease tension throughout the world.

"The conference was a strong expression of the unity of the West. This unity was apparent to the very end of the conference and thus it cannot fail to impress the Soviet Union. For the first time, the unity of the West was brought to the fore at an international conference. The western powers lived up to their obligations to the Paris and Bonn treaties."

These provided for West German sovereignty in NATO.

Friday, Saturday Heat Breaks Records in City

Temperatures for both Friday and Saturday were record-breakers locally, the city engineer's office reported today.

Friday's high was 102 at the city hall, although higher temperatures were recorded elsewhere in the city and vicinity, and Saturday's record high was 104. The next highest for July 22 was 97 in 1952 and for July 23, the next highest was 99 in 1952.

Scattered showers and cooling breezes kept the high for Sunday to a mere 91, but it was the 20th day of the month on which the mercury hit 90 and above.

Today's overnight low was 67 and yesterday's trend toward cooler weather remained with the mercury only at 78 by 10 a. m.

Sunday's rains did little more than dampen the earth in the region which has been parched throughout the month. Only .13 of an inch fell, and this brought the total for the month to only .24 of an inch. The average July rainfall here is about three inches. June was closer to normal with a rainfall of 2.62 inches.

To Replace $75,000 Dutchess County Fair Halls Leveled by Saturday Fire

Dutchess County Fair officials will lose no time in replacing two large exhibit halls and an administration building destroyed by fire on the Rhinebeck, N. Y., showgrounds Saturday night. Pierre Cookingham, president, said today. He placed the loss at $75,000.

After an inspection of the charred ruins Sunday with directors of the fair, Mr. Cookingham appointed a special committee to consult with an architect and obtain preliminary sketches and a cost estimate of a new building, or buildings. Named to the committee were Senator Ernest I. Hatfield, Benson R. Frost, Richard C. Murray and Samuel Morrison, all directors.

MR. COOKINGHAM declared that the fire, costly and only partly covered by insurance, would not alter plans to open the fair as scheduled on Saturday, August 27. "We'll have a fair just as we planned even if we have to hold it all under tents," he added.

Crews were to start clearing the charred debris from the grounds this week and tents already have been ordered to replace the exhibit space lost in the blaze. The buildings cannot be reconstructed in time for the 1955 fair.

While the fire claimed three buildings, five others in the main cluster escaped with only scorched exteriors.

THE FIRE was discovered in a stall in the pony shed at about 6:45 p. m. Saturday, shortly after the Dutchess County Firemen's association disbanded its annual parade on the showgrounds. By the time water lines were attached by the scores of volunteers still on the grounds, the flames spread rapidly to the tinder dry frame buildings on both sides of the shed.

Officials of the fair said a cigarette, carelessly discarded in the shed, probably started the fire.

President Impressed With Soviet Attitude

(Telecast, Broadcast Tonight 10:30 EDT)

Washington, July 25 (AP)—President Eisenhower told Congressional leaders today that no secret agreements of any kind were made at the Big Four meeting nor were any "private papers" initialed.

MEMBERS OF Congress gave this word to reporters after a briefing at the White House by Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles on the President's sessions in Geneva with Russian, British and French leaders.

LATER, presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty similarly said the President had given assurance there were no secret agreements. In a formal statement, Hagerty said:

"The President expressed the belief that the outstanding feature of the (Geneva) meeting was the apparently sincere desire expressed by the Soviet delegation to discuss world problems in the future in an atmosphere of friendliness and a willingness to sit down together to work out differences.

"The President added that this, of course, is a hopeful development but quite naturally does not of itself warrant any relaxation of the mutual security measures we and our allies of the free world are now pursuing."

ASKED WHETHER China was discussed, Hagerty told reporters it was, but only in the ilght of a State Department announcement — made while the White House meeting was in progress — that ambassadorial representatives of this country and Red China will meet in Geneva next Monday to discuss repatriation of citizens and other matters.

This discusion, Hagerty said, was not related to a recommendation by Chairman George (D.-Ga.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that top U. S. and Red Chinese diplomats confer soon on Asiatic problems.

Hagerty said Secretary Dulles gave the Congress members a detailed presentation of the day to day discussions at Geneva and an analysis of the conference's final directive to the Big Four foreign ministers, who are to meet in October.

From the White House, Dulles went to the Capitol for a closed session with members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Britain Tightens Buying

London, July 25 (AP)—British today made it tougher to buy on the instalment plan. The government boosted the required down payment to a third of the total purchase price.

In a move to combat inflation threatening Britain's prosperity boom, Chancellor of the Exchequer Richard A. Butler told the House of Commons the minimum down payment on such items as automobiles, radios and TV sets would be raised from 15 to 33 1/3 per cent. Maximum repayment periods remain unchanged.

HE ALSO slashed expenditures on capital projects in nationalized industries. The new rules go into effect tomorrow.

Canada Fires Still Raging

Toronto, July 25 (AP) — Raging forest fires continued to spread today through northern Ontario's sun-baked woodlands. At least 154 fires were burning, 48 of them out of control.

More than 200,000 acres of timber — pine, balsam, spruce and maple — have been reduced to blackened stumps. Frank MacDougall, deputy minister of lands and forests, said the 6,000 men fighting the blazes were "like terriers chewing at an elephant." The situation is the worst in the province's history.

Wharton Against Gas Taxes

Says Interstate Road Plan Cuts Home Powers

A bill aimed at increasing gas taxes for interstate highway construction, is opposed by Congressman J. Ernest Wharton, 29th District, New York.

The bill will be hotly debated on the House floor before the month ends, the Congressman noted in a "Washington News Letter," released recently to the press.

Only a fraction of dollars collected in New York and other states by such a tax, he noted, would come "back home," and "Time and again legislatures and organizations have complained about this usurpation of a state's taxing power. I agree with them completely and I don't want to see the evil developed further."

The congressman said he seldom criticizes procedures of the House which he has served for five years, but he said, "I want to complain to my constituents which I oppose H. R. 7072, the Fallon bill."

Many have written that they want the bill rejected, he said, and he feels that most people will agree that he is right in his stand against it.

"Of course we all know," he wrote, "that the very congressmen who are promoting higher taxes this year, will be screaming for tax reduction next year as election approaches." He said he saw nothing wrong with the toll-road principle in the interstate super highway construction, because it would spread the cost among actual users of the road. The Fallon bill contains no such provision.

Still another indictment of the measure, he said, "is that it usurps power of the House Ways and Means Committee which traditionally is the body originating revenue rising measures. Why should the Public Works Committee, which is reporting the Fallon bill, propose tax revisions involving billions of dollars for nearly a 16-year span?"

ETNA ERUPTS — Three spectators view erupting Mt. Etna, Europe's highest volcano, which began overflowing a few days ago from a crater some 1,000 feet deep on the northeast side. A wall of burning lava moved at rate of 120 feet an hour toward Italian village of Fornazzo, but authorities deemed it unnecessary to evacuate the town. This picture was taken July 23. To Replace $75,000 Dutchess County Fair Halls Leveled by Saturday Fire

Dutchess County Fair officials will lose no time in replacing two large exhibit halls and an administration building destroyed by fire on the Rhinebeck, N. Y., showgrounds Saturday night. Pierre Cookingham, president, said today. He placed the loss at $75,000.

After an inspection of the charred ruins Sunday with directors of the fair, Mr. Cookingham appointed a special committee to consult with an architect and obtain preliminary sketches and a cost estimate of a new building, or buildings. Named to the committee were Senator Ernest I. Hatfield, Benson R. Frost, Richard C. Murray and Samuel Morrison, all directors.

MR. COOKINGHAM declared that the fire, costly and only partly covered by insurance, would not alter plans to open the fair as scheduled on Saturday, August 27. "We'll have a fair just as we planned even if we have to hold it all under tents," he added.

Crews were to start clearing the charred debris from the grounds this week and tents already have been ordered to replace the exhibit space lost in the blaze. The buildings cannot be reconstructed in time for the 1955 fair.

While the fire claimed three buildings, five others in the main cluster escaped with only scorched exteriors.

THE FIRE was discovered in a stall in the pony shed at about 6:45 p. m. Saturday, shortly after the Dutchess County Firemen's association disbanded its annual parade on the showgrounds. By the time water lines were attached by the scores of volunteers still on the grounds, the flames spread rapidly to the tinder dry frame buildings on both sides of the shed.

Officials of the fair said a cigarette, carelessly discarded in the shed, probably started the fire.

About 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon Lopez was observed on a raft and shortly after he was missed. He was unable to swim. Think It Through

By EDWARD F. HUTTON

Webster's Dictionary defines the word, "racketeering" as: "One who singly, or in combination with others, extorts money, or advantages, by violence or unlawful intereference with business."

Is a wage contract put over at the point of an economic gun, and with the "threat of violence," a kind of racketeering?

Mr. Hutton

The Ford strike has been settled. Was the union guilty; or did some law, drafted by a "combination" of Government and labor, absolve them from all legal or moral wrong? Does a one-sided law make a thing right?

The Wagner Act of 1937 promised to lessen strikes in the interest of tranquility and peace. When the Act became law, it worked in reverse — more strikes, not less. Many were attended by violence—which was winked at by Government.

From 1937 to '52 inclusive, 16 years, there were about 63,000 strikes. How many were motivated by "racketeering," "extortion of money," "threats of violence," and "interference with business"?

Are unions to control both Government and industry?

The threatened Ford strike was the first step—a pattern which, if forced on those who can't take it, can and will do great harm — far and wide.

Some restraint, combined with courage on the part of political and industrial leaders, neighbor, may soften the result and lessen its worst harm, inflation,—paid for by one and all.

Clambake Slated By Restaurateurs

President George Broome of the Ulster County Hotel and Restaurant Liquor Dealers' Association, Inc., at a meeting held Thursday afternoon at Artie's Bar and Grill, appointed Emile Jordan of Chez Emile Restaurant, chairman of the sixth annual clambake. The bake will be held on Monday, September 12, at Spindler's Resort at Maple Hill on the Rosendale road.

Last year's bake was very successful due to the new and modern way in which it was served. A person could come anytime between 1 p. m. and 6 p. m. and eat any or all of the 36 items listed on the menu at any time. The motto of the bake was "eat what you want, as much as you want, when you want it." It proved to be so successful that the same type of bake will be served again this year.

THE ENTIRE NET proceeds last year was given to the Cerebral Palsy clinic of Ulster county.

The bake is open to all tavernmen and their friends in Ulster county and the entire proceeds this year will be given to various charities. Tickets are ready for distribution and anyone desiring to attend may contact the ticket chairman, Sparky Greco.

A much larger turnout is expected this year due to increased membership and the charitable work for which the bake is run.

Other members of the committee are Joe Assion, Bert Tresider, Artie Isabella, Gene Sottile, Ray Amell, Sam Matthews and Robert E. Teetsel.

Check Being Made On Creek Garbage

Numerous complaints have been received of persons throwing garbage and rubbish in the Esopus creek, Supervisor Percy Bush of the town of Ulster reports.

This is a serious violation of the law and anyone caught will suffer severe consequences, Bush said. Not only is it a violation of the law but it shows poor sportsmanship since it pollutes the creek which is used in summer by many residents and campers for swimming, the Supervisor stressed.

A check is being made along the creek and if the practice continues steps will be taken to prosecute the offenders. Bush said fair warning has been given the violators and further complaints will be carefully investigated.

Roadplane Passes

Pontiac, Mich., July 25 (AP)—A combination airplane-automobile built by Dewey Bryan, 33-year-old General Motors test driver, passed highway and airway tests over the weekend. Bryan of nearby Milford, believes his "roadaplane" is the first to carry its folding wings down the highway. Other roadable planes, he says, leave their wings at the airport or haul them in a trailer. The single-seater weighs 600 pounds and has a 40-horsepower engine that gives it a highway speed of 50 miles an hour and an air speed of 60. It lands at 25 to 30 MPH.

Geneva Talk

not in any way "involve diplomatic recognition" of Red China.

Peiping radio also reported the meeting would take place.

Only last night Sen. George (D.-Ga.), chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, had called for "face-to-face" talks between the two governments.

George, however, proposed a broad-range meeting of foreign ministers. The nature of the meeting announced today would be a move in that direction, but on a lower level and presumably with a limited agenda.

Announcement of the forthcoming talks at Geneva, where the Big Four government chiefs met last week, also followed an official statement in New Delhi that Indian Prime Minister Nehru had recently exchanged messages with President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Eden of Great Britain.

The messages, the statement said, involved "matters of current international interest."

Britain Tightens

nouncement. Some brokers called it "Black Monday."

The chancellor said Britain was absorbing too much of her production at home and "we cannot be satisfied with the way in which our balance of payments and our reserves are moving."

THE HOME front must be strengthened, he said, before Britain made any further move on the exchange front, which was suffering from sales of sterling.

The chancellor demanded that business firms endeavor to slow down investments not of the greatest national urgency.

Butler said he was asking the governor of the Bank of England to "represent to the banks how important it is that they should achieve a positive and significant reduction in the total of bank advances outstanding."

THERE HAVE been reports that an increase in the bank rate —now 4½ per cent—was in the offing. The bank rate is the charge for borrowing money.

Butler explained that Britain's primary aim must be "to reduce home demand in order to leave room for the extra exports we need," he continued:

"All who can must try to spend less, in order to save more."

Britain's cost-of-living index jumped three points in June to a record high of 150.

Butler appealed to country and municipal authorities to hold back schemes of capital expenditures as far as they can.

The chancellor said Britain had opportunities now for expanding her trade and "we must seize them.

"Our economy is fundamentally sound," he said, "but we must concentrate all our attention on increasing our competitive power and developing our export trade."

Think It Through

By EDWARD F. HUTTON

Webster's Dictionary defines the word, "racketeering" as: "One who singly, or in combination with others, extorts money, or advantages, by violence or unlawful intereference with business."

Is a wage contract put over at the point of an economic gun, and with the "threat of violence," a kind of racketeering?

Mr. Hutton

The Ford strike has been settled. Was the union guilty; or did some law, drafted by a "combination" of Government and labor, absolve them from all legal or moral wrong? Does a one-sided law make a thing right?

The Wagner Act of 1937 promised to lessen strikes in the interest of tranquility and peace. When the Act became law, it worked in reverse — more strikes, not less. Many were attended by violence—which was winked at by Government.

From 1937 to '52 inclusive, 16 years, there were about 63,000 strikes. How many were motivated by "racketeering," "extortion of money," "threats of violence," and "interference with business"?

Are unions to control both Government and industry?

The threatened Ford strike was the first step—a pattern which, if forced on those who can't take it, can and will do great harm — far and wide.

Some restraint, combined with courage on the part of political and industrial leaders, neighbor, may soften the result and lessen its worst harm, inflation,—paid for by one and all.

Clambake Slated By Restaurateurs

President George Broome of the Ulster County Hotel and Restaurant Liquor Dealers' Association, Inc., at a meeting held Thursday afternoon at Artie's Bar and Grill, appointed Emile Jordan of Chez Emile Restaurant, chairman of the sixth annual clambake. The bake will be held on Monday, September 12, at Spindler's Resort at Maple Hill on the Rosendale road.

Last year's bake was very successful due to the new and modern way in which it was served. A person could come anytime between 1 p. m. and 6 p. m. and eat any or all of the 36 items listed on the menu at any time. The motto of the bake was "eat what you want, as much as you want, when you want it." It proved to be so successful that the same type of bake will be served again this year.

THE ENTIRE NET proceeds last year was given to the Cerebral Palsy clinic of Ulster county.

The bake is open to all tavernmen and their friends in Ulster county and the entire proceeds this year will be given to various charities. Tickets are ready for distribution and anyone desiring to attend may contact the ticket chairman, Sparky Greco.

A much larger turnout is expected this year due to increased membership and the charitable work for which the bake is run.

Other members of the committee are Joe Assion, Bert Tresider, Artie Isabella, Gene Sottile, Ray Amell, Sam Matthews and Robert E. Teetsel.

Check Being Made On Creek Garbage

Numerous complaints have been received of persons throwing garbage and rubbish in the Esopus creek, Supervisor Percy Bush of the town of Ulster reports.

This is a serious violation of the law and anyone caught will suffer severe consequences, Bush said. Not only is it a violation of the law but it shows poor sportsmanship since it pollutes the creek which is used in summer by many residents and campers for swimming, the Supervisor stressed.

A check is being made along the creek and if the practice continues steps will be taken to prosecute the offenders. Bush said fair warning has been given the violators and further complaints will be carefully investigated.

No casualties or damage have been reported, Kyodo said.

Roadplane Passes

Pontiac, Mich., July 25 (AP)—A combination airplane-automobile built by Dewey Bryan, 33-year-old General Motors test driver, passed highway and airway tests over the weekend. Bryan of nearby Milford, believes his "roadaplane" is the first to carry its folding wings down the highway. Other roadable planes, he says, leave their wings at the airport or haul them in a trailer. The single-seater weighs 600 pounds and has a 40-horsepower engine that gives it a highway speed of 50 miles an hour and an air speed of 60. It lands at 25 to 30 MPH.

Geneva Talk

not in any way "involve diplomatic recognition" of Red China.

Peiping radio also reported the meeting would take place.

Only last night Sen. George (D.-Ga.), chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, had called for "face-to-face" talks between the two governments.

George, however, proposed a broad-range meeting of foreign ministers. The nature of the meeting announced today would be a move in that direction, but on a lower level and presumably with a limited agenda.

Announcement of the forthcoming talks at Geneva, where the Big Four government chiefs met last week, also followed an official statement in New Delhi that Indian Prime Minister Nehru had recently exchanged messages with President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Eden of Great Britain.

The messages, the statement said, involved "matters of current international interest."

Britain Tightens

nouncement. Some brokers called it "Black Monday."

The chancellor said Britain was absorbing too much of her production at home and "we cannot be satisfied with the way in which our balance of payments and our reserves are moving."

THE HOME front must be strengthened, he said, before Britain made any further move on the exchange front, which was suffering from sales of sterling.

The chancellor demanded that business firms endeavor to slow down investments not of the greatest national urgency.

Butler said he was asking the governor of the Bank of England to "represent to the banks how important it is that they should achieve a positive and significant reduction in the total of bank advances outstanding."

THERE HAVE been reports that an increase in the bank rate —now 4½ per cent—was in the offing. The bank rate is the charge for borrowing money.

Butler explained that Britain's primary aim must be "to reduce home demand in order to leave room for the extra exports we need," he continued:

"All who can must try to spend less, in order to save more."

Britain's cost-of-living index jumped three points in June to a record high of 150.

Butler appealed to country and municipal authorities to hold back schemes of capital expenditures as far as they can.

The chancellor said Britain had opportunities now for expanding her trade and "we must seize them.

"Our economy is fundamentally sound," he said, "but we must concentrate all our attention on increasing our competitive power and developing our export trade."

Overnight, the market value of General Motors common stock skyrockets $1,300,000,000! It is one of the most remarkable happenings ever to occur on the world's largest securities exchange. That one event will change the psychology in many homes.

For instance, a professional man who bought 100 shares for $4500 before the two-for-one split-up in recent years now has 200 shares that are worth $25,000. This event has shaken his natural conservatism from its foundations, and a buoyant spirit has seized him. He will put idle dollars to work immediately.

Confident predictions that in the coming decade, 1955-65, national income will probably exceed the 500-billion-dollar-a-year-mark are constantly being made. And when one remembers that national income has increased almost 1,000 per cent from 1932 to 1955, such predictions for the decade ahead appear ultra-conservative.

I believe the announced three-for-one split of General Motors common will prove to be an historic economic event. It points up as nothing else can the belief on the part of the corporation's directors that in the immediate future America's economy is going to expand tremendously.

FOR MANY YEARS in this column I have repeatedly said that if the millions of investors in America owned shares of the best corporations (as they should) the supply of such shares would fail to meet the demand.

Here and now I make another prediction: Between 1955 and 1960 there will be a large increase in the available supply of blue-chip common stocks. Where will this supply come from? From split-ups of present shares.

When the General Motors three-for-one split is completed, there will be over 275,000,000 common shares outstanding. Ten years ago, anybody who dared predict such an event might well have had his sanity tested.

No economy in the world's history has ever had the dynamic character of America's. I shall set down here some experiences that have come to me during my years in the financial world since World War 1.

In 1920, when I was serving my apprenticeship with the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, one noontime at luncheon a junior officer with vivid imagination said, "Some day in New York we shall have a billion-dollar bank!"

It was a sensational statement, and one of his listeners facetiously replied, "I think we had better put you in a straitjacket and cart you off to a psychopathic ward!"

Billion dollar banks in 1955? New York city is filled with them.

Likewise, I remember when one of America's big corporations first did a billion-dollar business in a single year. Eyebrows were lifted. What had America come to, anyhow?

Yet today many businesses are in that class. I think that by 1965, when national income promises to hit 500 billions yearly, such a corporation as General Motors will be doing 25 billion dollars a year. And scores of industrial enterprises will be in the five and 10 billion dollar class.

Anyhow, such is my 1955-1956 preview of economic America.

Noted Theatrical Figure Dies at 41

Dallas, July 25 (AP) — Margo Jones, Broadway producer and the first to make professional use of the theater-in-the-round, died last night.

Ill less than two weeks, the 41-year-old Dallas woman succumbed to a kidney disease blamed by doctors on inhalation of fumes of a cleaning fluid.

She was associate producer of "Inherit the Wind," a current Broadway hit starring Paul Muni. The play was first produced in her Dallas arena or in-the-round theater, in which the spectators surround the stage.

SHE FIRST came to the attention of New York critics when she and Eddie Dowling co-directed Tennessee Williams' "Glass Menagerie," voted the best play of the 1944-45 season by the New York Drama Critics Circle.

Shortly before "Glass Menagerie," Miss Jones received a Rockefeller Foundation grant to study the feasibility of the theater-in-the-round, until then tried only on college campuses. She decided on Dallas as the ideal location, raised $40,000 by public subscription and in 1947 began her first season.

Her theater was named Theater '47 and with each year the name changed, Theater '48, Theater '49, etc. It has remained the most successful of arena theaters.

THE DEATH certificate said Miss Jones accidentally inhaled fumes of a cleaning fluid while a rug was being cleaned in her apartment in a residential-area hotel here about two weeks ago. This led to uremic poisoning.

Miss Jones spent her free hours reading new scripts and her practice of using those of unknown authors rebounded to her gained fame. They included Tennessee Williams, whose later works might not otherwise have been available to her.

Inflation Grows in Many Other Nations of the World

New York, July 25 (AP)—Americans have been enjoying a stable cost of living for some time. But inflation hasn't bowed off the stage in some other lands.

They still watch prices climb. And worry is increasing even here lest the economic scenery is being shifted again by recent wage increases, so that inflation, waiting in the wings, can make a return appearance.

Inflation, a chief problem in most Latin American countries and in some parts of the Far East, still haunts a few European nations and threatens England anew.

Special conditions seem to account for inflation's hold on these spots.

ON A WORLD wide basis, commodity prices taken as a whole have been remarkably steady for three years. Metal prices are rising. But farm product prices are falling. Rises and declines just about cancel each other out.

Increased industrial capacity in the United States and western Europe have licked most shortages and competition holds most prices in line.

Governmental financial difficulties and currency juggling trouble parts of Latin America, however.

Prices and wages soar in Chile—the cost of living up to 70 per cent in the last year—and the printing presses busy turning out paper money:

SOME WORKERS there have to work 25 days to buy a pair of shoes and almost one hour to buy a single egg. This has brought a rash of strikes.

The peso slips badly in value. Ten years ago four U. S. cents would buy one Chilean peso. Today four cents will buy 22 pesos.

In Brazil the cost of living rose another six per cent early this year. Peru has tried to correct its inflation problems. Mexico suffers now and then as wages tend higher.

LIVING COSTS creep steadily higher in Sweden and are about three times higher than 20 years ago.

Turkey this month turned to higher interest rates in a move to halt the inflation that has troubled it for some time.

Japan has been battling a serious inflation and hopes it has it in check now. Korea is hard hit, as war's aftermath. The West can only guess at what's happening in Red China, but prices may be soaring there too as the Communists push hard for their pet programs.

BANKERS SAY that some under-developed lands, driving hard to raise their standards of living almost over night, have been over ambitious in capital development. They've boosted wages and issued currency freely—and prices threaten to get out of hand.

India is watching this danger and applying the brakes. Indonesia suffers from big government deficits which sent living costs rising for a time.

New Zealand raised the bank rate this month and will curb instalment buying of cars to ward off a free-spending prelude to inflation.

SOME NATIONS, on the other hand, are now in the midst of deflation problems—notably Burma and Thailand. Such nations suffer when prices of their chief farm commodities tumble.

On the bright side of the picture is much of western Europe. France, once a chief prey of inflation, has enjoyed two years now of industrial recovery without price spurts.

British Captain Says Reds Attacked Ship

Hong Kong, July 25 (AP)—The captain of the 1,896-ton British cargo ship Inchwells charged last night that Nationalist Chinese Thunderjets riddled his ship's deck and bridgehouse with bullets July 9 while it was in a Chinese Communist port opposite Formosa. There were no casualties. The Inchwells returned to Hong Kong last night.

Capt. James C. Gilmore said the ship had loaded timber for Shanghai and was about to sail from the Min rives estuary when the attack came. He said the planes flew low and attacked without warning.

First engineer John Thompson said no one could have mistaken the Inchwells' nationality, since the vessel had six Union Jacks—"large as hatch holds"—painted on her sides and top deck.

Overnight, the market value of General Motors common stock skyrockets $1,300,000,000! It is one of the most remarkable happenings ever to occur on the world's largest securities exchange. That one event will change the psychology in many homes.

For instance, a professional man who bought 100 shares for $4500 before the two-for-one split-up in recent years now has 200 shares that are worth $25,000. This event has shaken his natural conservatism from its foundations, and a buoyant spirit has seized him. He will put idle dollars to work immediately.

Confident predictions that in the coming decade, 1955-65, national income will probably exceed the 500-billion-dollar-a-year-mark are constantly being made. And when one remembers that national income has increased almost 1,000 per cent from 1932 to 1955, such predictions for the decade ahead appear ultra-conservative.

I believe the announced three-for-one split of General Motors common will prove to be an historic economic event. It points up as nothing else can the belief on the part of the corporation's directors that in the immediate future America's economy is going to expand tremendously.

FOR MANY YEARS in this column I have repeatedly said that if the millions of investors in America owned shares of the best corporations (as they should) the supply of such shares would fail to meet the demand.

Here and now I make another prediction: Between 1955 and 1960 there will be a large increase in the available supply of blue-chip common stocks. Where will this supply come from? From split-ups of present shares.

When the General Motors three-for-one split is completed, there will be over 275,000,000 common shares outstanding. Ten years ago, anybody who dared predict such an event might well have had his sanity tested.

No economy in the world's history has ever had the dynamic character of America's. I shall set down here some experiences that have come to me during my years in the financial world since World War 1.

In 1920, when I was serving my apprenticeship with the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, one noontime at luncheon a junior officer with vivid imagination said, "Some day in New York we shall have a billion-dollar bank!"

It was a sensational statement, and one of his listeners facetiously replied, "I think we had better put you in a straitjacket and cart you off to a psychopathic ward!"

Billion dollar banks in 1955? New York city is filled with them.

Likewise, I remember when one of America's big corporations first did a billion-dollar business in a single year. Eyebrows were lifted. What had America come to, anyhow?

Yet today many businesses are in that class. I think that by 1965, when national income promises to hit 500 billions yearly, such a corporation as General Motors will be doing 25 billion dollars a year. And scores of industrial enterprises will be in the five and 10 billion dollar class.

Anyhow, such is my 1955-1956 preview of economic America.

Noted Theatrical Figure Dies at 41

Dallas, July 25 (AP) — Margo Jones, Broadway producer and the first to make professional use of the theater-in-the-round, died last night.

Ill less than two weeks, the 41-year-old Dallas woman succumbed to a kidney disease blamed by doctors on inhalation of fumes of a cleaning fluid.

She was associate producer of "Inherit the Wind," a current Broadway hit starring Paul Muni. The play was first produced in her Dallas arena or in-the-round theater, in which the spectators surround the stage.

SHE FIRST came to the attention of New York critics when she and Eddie Dowling co-directed Tennessee Williams' "Glass Menagerie," voted the best play of the 1944-45 season by the New York Drama Critics Circle.

Shortly before "Glass Menagerie," Miss Jones received a Rockefeller Foundation grant to study the feasibility of the theater-in-the-round, until then tried only on college campuses. She decided on Dallas as the ideal location, raised $40,000 by public subscription and in 1947 began her first season.

Her theater was named Theater '47 and with each year the name changed, Theater '48, Theater '49, etc. It has remained the most successful of arena theaters.

THE DEATH certificate said Miss Jones accidentally inhaled fumes of a cleaning fluid while a rug was being cleaned in her apartment in a residential-area hotel here about two weeks ago. This led to uremic poisoning.

Miss Jones spent her free hours reading new scripts and her practice of using those of unknown authors rebounded to h[illegible] gained fame. They included Tennessee Williams, whose later works might not otherwise have been available to her.

Inflation Grows in Many Other Nations of the World

New York, July 25 (AP)—Americans have been enjoying a stable cost of living for some time. But inflation hasn't bowed off the stage in some other lands.

They still watch prices climb. And worry is increasing even here lest the economic scenery is being shifted again by recent wage increases, so that inflation, waiting in the wings, can make a return appearance.

Inflation, a chief problem in most Latin American countries and in some parts of the Far East, still haunts a few European nations and threatens England anew.

Special conditions seem to account for inflation's hold on these spots.

ON A WORLD wide basis, commodity prices taken as a whole have been remarkably steady for three years. Metal prices are rising. But farm product prices are falling. Rises and declines just about cancel each other out.

Increased industrial capacity in the United States and western Europe have licked most shortages and competition holds most prices in line.

Governmental financial difficulties and currency juggling trouble parts of Latin America, however.

Prices and wages soar in Chile—the cost of living up to 70 per cent in the last year—and the printing presses busy turning out paper money.

SOME WORKERS there have to work 25 days to buy a pair of shoes and almost one hour to buy a single egg. This has brought a rash of strikes.

The peso slips badly in value. Ten years ago four U. S. cents would buy one Chilean peso. Today four cents will buy 22 pesos.

In Brazil the cost of living rose another six per cent early this year. Peru has tried to correct its inflation problems. Mexico suffers now and then as wages tend higher.

LIVING COSTS creep steadily higher in Sweden and are about three times higher than 20 years ago.

Turkey this month turned to higher interest rates in a move to halt the inflation that has troubled it for some time.

Japan has been battling a serious inflation and hopes it has it in check now. Korea is hard hit, as war's aftermath. The West can only guess at what's happening in Red China, but prices may be soaring there too as the Communists push hard for their pet programs.

BANKERS SAY that some under-developed lands, driving hard to raise their standards of living almost over night, have been over ambitious in capital development. They've boosted wages and issued currency freely—and prices threaten to get out of hand.

India is watching this danger and applying the brakes. Indonesia suffers from big government deficits which sent living costs rising for a time.

New Zealand raised the bank rate this month and will curb instalment buying of cars to ward off a free-spending prelude to inflation.

SOME NATIONS, on the other hand, are now in the midst of deflation problems—notably Burma and Thailand. Such nations suffer when prices of their chief farm commodities tumble.

On the bright side of the picture is much of western Europe. France, once a chief prey of inflation, has enjoyed two years now of industrial recovery without price spurts.

British Captain Says Reds Attacked Ship

Hong Kong, July 25 (AP)—The captain of the 1,896-ton British cargo ship Inchwells charged last night that Nationalist Chinese Thunderjets riddled his ship's deck and bridgehouse with bullets July 9 while it was in a Chinese Communist port opposite Formosa. There were no casualties. The Inchwells returned to Hong Kong last night.

Capt. James C. Gilmore said the ship had loaded timber for Shanghai and was about to sail from the Min rives estuary when the attack came. He said the planes flew low and attacked without warning.

First engineer John Thompson said no one could have mistaken the Inchwells' nationality, since the vessel had six Union Jacks—"large as hatch holds"—painted on her sides and top deck.

NIXON'S STAR

Richard M. Nixon has been about the "workingest" vice president in history. President Eisenhower has not hesitated to load him down with responsible tasks, and he has responded with relish. As a result, his power and influence are far greater than is usual for a vice president.

Nixon's star rose even higher when he was placed in charge of domestic affairs during the chief executive's trip to Geneva. Mr. Eisenhower, in effect, made his young vice president "substitute president" while he himself was out of the country.

Specifically, Vice President Nixon was instructed to preside at a regular cabinet meeting. The president also authorized him to hold any necessary conferences with congressional leaders to speed up vital legislation as congress nears adjournment time.

The constitution gives the vice president no executive responsibility. He can exercise only such executive power as is delegated to him by the president. By making Nixon "substitute president" during his absence from Washington, President Eisenhower has clearly given him a notable stamp of approval. That could have great significance, especially if Mr. Eisenhower should choose not to run for another term.

RECKLESS WATER DRIVING

A man stood on a diving raft fifty yards out from a lake shore, watching a number of children diving and swimming. Suddenly he became aware that the snarl of a power boat, one of several zooming on the lake, was much closer.

He looked up in alarm and saw that the boat was sweeping in close to the raft. He counted heads hurriedly, saw that one of the children was missing—probably swimming under water.

Frantically, he waved to the power-boat driver and yelled at him to swing wide. The driver merely grinned and swept in close to the raft. As the raft bobbed in the wake, straining at its cables, the missing child popped up, unhurt.

Unhurt, yes—but no thanks to the youth at the controls of that boat. His craft, with with deadly propeller churning, had passed directly over the lad swimming under water. Call it luck that the boy was not maimed or killed.

Irresponsible driving is just as bad on water as on land. The man at the controls of a power boat should be exactly as careful, should obey the rules as conscientiously, as a man driving a fast car on a crowded highway.

Too many people with new motorboats know nothing of the basic physical laws which underlie navigation and have never troubled to look up the rules governing their local waters. Why are there not tests for licenses as there are for drivers of cars?

THE BITER BIT

Everybody likes to see a designing man fall into his own trap all the more, perhaps, because it does not happen too often. This is a true tale of two speculators who bought a handsome old city apartment house. They made all the long-established tenants leave so that their successors could be charged double rent. But before they got the new lodgers in, they conceived the idea of making even more money by splitting the large apartments up into smaller ones. A real killing seemed certain.

Just then they found that they had overlooked something. A city ordinance requires the construction of new apartments to be accompanied by adequate parking space. Such space did not exist in that neighborhood. As a sequel, it was several months before the building could be filled again and then at lower rents.

The speculative owners have been shown a lesson which wiser business men know well: It is always better to be satisfied with a reasonable profit.

You can tell that next year is a presidential election year. Candidates are denying that they are candidates at an ever increasing rate.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THINGS READ TOO LATE

For many years, it has only too often been told to the American people that huge amounts of munitions have been sent to Nationalist China, which disappeared somewhere in Asia. The enemies of Nationalist China even repeated the tale that the Nationalists sold the American-provided munitions to the Japanese.

Now comes a curious document out of the Morgenthau diaries, a gold mine of historic data, made available by the Eastland Committee. It is dated September 26, 1939, 11:15 a. m. It is a transcript of a conference at which were Ambassador Hu Shih of Nationalist China, then engaged in a war against Japan that had already lasted eight years; Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Secretary of the Treasury, and Joseph P. Cotton of the Export-Import Bank. Harry Dexter White came in later.

Hu Shih says:

". . . The French Government forbids Chinese munitions, motor cars and gasoline—they specified these three things: Chinese munitions, motor cars and gasoline—from passing through French Indo-China.

"H.M., Jr. That is serious.

"Ambassador. That is very serious. One of those things we were afraid. . . .

"H.M., Jr. They won't permit what to go through? Munitions?

"Ambassador. Munitions, motor cars and gasoline. . . .

"Mr. Cotton. These are purchases already made?

"Ambassador. All purchases already made. . . .

"H.M., Jr. Humph!"

This is one of many instances of the diversion of munitions that were sent to Nationalist China. Other instances have been reported to Congressional committees. It was the period when Lauchlin Currie was in the White House, Harry Dexter White in the Treasury, Alger Hiss in the State Department.

Hu Shih does not ask for something for nothing. He puts his proposition on a business basis. He says:

"The President (Roosevelt) was very much interested. He asked about certain details. For example, payment of this last credit, and I reported that three installments had been paid on it. He was very much pleased. He said, 'That is highly complimentary; that alone should be a good excuse of renewing or extending more credits.' And he asked about securities. I told him that I learned from Mr. K. P. Chen that wood oil, tung oil, the annual production is about 44,000 tons a year and in about five years, under the contract, in five years the total production will be about 220,000 tons. At the market price of $440.00 a ton, that would be enough, would be in five years' time worth $96,000,000.

"Then I also reported to the President that just that week my Government had notified Mr. Chen and myself that the Central Government was taking over the tin, the control of the tin, production of tin, which constitutes about 70 per cent of the world's production, which amounts to 10,000 tons a year from the Province of Yunnan and 3,000 tons from the Province of Kwangsi, so about 13,000 tons a year, and tin at that time was worth $1,100 a ton and now, in two weeks' time, I am told, the price is $1,200 a ton. So that, if we talk in terms of five years, the tin would be worth at least between $60,000,000 or $70,000,000. The President was interested in this. He said, 'I will see the Secretary of the Treasury.'"

So, with whom was Ambassador Hu Shih to negotiate? Naturally, with Harry Dexter White, the man who was exposed by J. Edgar Hoover, under oath, as a Russian agent.

Documents such as this are usually published too late for any practical purposes. White is dead. But Hu Shih is very much alive, working at Princeton at his specialty which is philosophy. Henry Morgenthau, Jr., is alive, but he cannot improve on his diaries. He must have had his office wired for recording, as every word of every conference has been taken down and is available for the historian.

The few documents which the Eastland Committee has made public clearly show what a treasure-trove these diaries are and it would be to the public good if they were all made available, if for no other reason than that history can be made more correct.

For instance, it could be valuable to students of inflation to have the entire story of the American-arranged inflation of Nationalist China. Many accounts have been written, pro and con, by persons who could not know the entire story.

That Body of Yours

RETURN OF ADENOIDS

It may come as a surprise to many of us to learn that adenoids grow in again in many cases after they have been removed, along with the tonsils. We are so used to thinking that once the tonsils and adenoids have been removed we do not have to think about them again, that to learn that some research physicians have found that adenoid tissue grows in again in three-quarters of the total number of cases is quite unexpected information. To be sure, the recurrence rate of adenoids seems to differ very widely with the various investigators, some finding recurrence of adenoids in only a small percentage, as low as four to eight per cent, and others finding it as high as three in every four.

In a series presented in the Canadian Medical Association Journal, Dr. Borys Tolczynski, of Yorkton, Sask., adenoids of some type were found in 88 patients out of 150 (54.6 per cent). All of them had previously had their tonsils and adenoids "removed."

While adenoids have their own cycle of development, appearing at their height in mid-childhood and disappearing after puberty, it is thought that there may be some factors, aside from poor results of operation, which might influence that cycle of growth. Some of these are:

1. Dietary habits: low vitamin, low mineral and low protein (meat, eggs, fish, fowl) diet.

2. Allergy: it is thought that allergy or sensitiveness to various substances might be responsible for regrowth of the adenoids and that this might be prevented by giving treatment for nasal allergy after the adenoids have first been removed.

3. Heredity: some children develop adenoids more than others because they have inherited this tendency.

4. Age of the child at time of operation: there is a belief that the younger a child is at the time of adenoidectomy (operation for removal of adenoids), the more likely that the adenoids grow in again and this appears to be true. On the other hand in older children the adenoids are approaching the time when they disappear by themselves which might account for the lower rate of return of adenoids at the older age level.

5. It may be that nature herself causes the regrowth of adenoids in younger children. The adenoid is a barrier against infection in the upper respiratory tract and is part of a defensive system which nature may be trying to replace by growing more adenoid tissue when some has been removed.

6. It is more difficult to perform a clean adenoidectomy (leaving no tags) than it is to perform a clean tonsillectomy as the operator is "working in the dark" with the adenoids.

Dr. Tolczynski feels that more successful adenoidectomies will be performed when the direct-vision type of operation is more widely adopted.

Being allergic or sensitive to various foods, pollens and other substances can give rise to many irritating symptoms. "Now Do Be Careful and Don't Get Lost!"

Edson's Washington News Notebook

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA) — Russian Premier Bulganin's Geneva bid for "strengthening economic ties" and "the development of trade" is viewed with considerable interest in Washington. Foreign Minister Molotov pitched the same woo at the United Nations' 10th birthday party in San Francisco.

Some American experts on Russia have come to the conclusion that what Russia really needs and what she is angling for now is a long term credit from the west. They say the Soviet badly needs capital to complete its industrialization.

It is recalled that at the end of the war, Russia asked for a one billion dollar credit from the United States. The request, which came in to Leo Crowley of the wartime Foreign Economic Administration, accidentally or on purpose got lost.

After Mr. Crowley had left town, the request was found in his files by the State Department. It was then made public with some embarrassment and considerable amusement. Nobody took it seriously. And nothing was ever done about it.

WHEN THE MARSHALL PLAN was begun in 1947, Russia was given a chance to join. As a member, she could have obtained not only credit but grants for rehabilitation. Russia chose to stay out, to her loss and the western world's gain.

So now the question comes up for a third time through an approach from the Russians for more international trade.

Soviet Russia's foreign commerce is now rated sixth in the world. Its imports last year were reported at the equivalent of one billion dollars, exports 900 million.

For comparison, U. S. imports last year were valued at 10 billion dollars, exports 13 billion.

Premier Bulganin made the point at Geneva that Russia could get along without restoration of normal trade relations with other countries. The inference he was apparently trying to make here was that his country was not leading from weakness.

But it is acknowledged that the Soviet economy has always been tight. Being a Communist country, it has no inflow of capital from other countries for investment purposes. And it has no capital accumulation of its own.

WHENEVER THE RUSSIANS want to finance same new development—like their atomic power plant, a new railroad or canal system—they have to take the capital out of the hides of their people. Some of it is in the form of slave labor.

A shift in emphasis of as little as 5 per cent from one program in a five-year plan has always been done at the expense of some other program, it is pointed out.

Former Premier Malenkov in 1953 said 70 per cent of the Soviet economy went to heavy industry. He wanted to change this and give the Russian people more consumers' goods.

Many of these consumers' goods had to be imported, however, and Russia had little to offer in trade.

When the new Bulganin-Khruschev crowd displaced Malenkov, they went back to the Stalin era emphasis on capital goods production.

This emphasis on heavy industry has of course been responsible for the growing industrialization of Russia.

TO INDUSTRALIZE the country, the Soviet had to educate skilled workers. They are the factory managers of today, the closest thing Russia has to an economic middle class.

These "bourgeoisie" have created new demands for consumer goods and luxuries. But whether the new governing crowd in the Kremlin is now going back to a greater emphasis on consumer goods is not yet clear.

These points may be clarified by Russian moves to liberalize international trade after the Geneva conference is over.

It is believed that one of these moves will be a call for a world trade meeting to break down the western world's restrictions against exports of strategic materials to Communist countries, and the freeing of international credit lines for expanded Communist imports.

Piercing of Iron Curtain Seen as Main Geneva Gain

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, July 25—There's one real disappointment about the Big Four meeting at Geneva—that the dramatic talks had to come to an end. The world would have been glad to see them go on. The pressure for peace is so intense that any amount of inconvenience to the statesmen involved—any delay in other official business—would seem to have been justified if there was a chance for worthwhile agreements.

But the sad truth is that the Soviet rulers, unlike their western colleagues, represented only themselves. They could not make agreements on substantive questions without confessing publicly to their peoples a certain responsibility for some of the evils they have wrought in the last ten years especially among the satellite states where they have imposed a system of slavery.

So far as the western governments were concerned, their representatives achieved a moral triumph. It was not a triumph merely because they helped to create an atmosphere or spirit of peaceful purpose. The Geneva conference may be termed a success from the western viewpoint only because it concentrated the attention of the entire world for a full week on the issues that separate the East and the West.

This is no ordinary achievement. Not in ten years has the Iron Curtain been penetrated so as to enable American and British and French viewpoints to be printed at length in Soviet newspapers. Whatever the Soviet people have been told about the "warmongers" of the West must now seem untruthful to the readers of the newspapers and the listeners to radio broadcasts behind the Iron Curtain.

There were to be sure risks involved. What a mischievous use the Soviet propagandists can make now, for example, of those snapshots showing Ike and Bulganin and Khrushchev hobnobbing and smiling and fraternizing. They can display those photos all through the satellite countries as if to say to the oppressed peoples—"Don't depend on the United States and the West to help you out — they're playing ball with us now. Better accept your fate."

There were, on the other hand, to offset such an impression plenty of significant statements made by President Eisenhower in his addresses at Geneva to indicate clearly that the United States has not lost interest in what is happening to the peoples of the Satellite States.

Analyzing the Geneva conference—what Russia got out of it and what the west derived—the diplomatic scoreboard looks something like this:

What the Russians Got:

1. A new prestige inside Soviet Russia for her rulers—equality with the heads of the western states. A certain respectability was bestowed on the Kremlin group by President Eisenhower's conspicuous gestures of personal and official friendship. This is important to enhance the domestic position of the Kremlin as against the restless elements of the people who believe western charges that Communist imperialism has brought the world to the brink of a nuclear war.

2. A spectacular chance to restate the Soviet position for unification of Germany, whenever the Kremlin chooses, and on its own terms and conditions. This is important in future maneuvers inside both East and West Germany in attaining the main Soviet objective—detaching Germany completely from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

3. A widely publicized endorsement by Russia of the demand for admission of Red China to the United Nations. This together with defiant comments about Formosa assures the Peiping government that Moscow is still intent on challenging the position of the United States in the Far East.

4. A strategy of confusion to assist the Soviet propaganda machine in eastern Europe. By putting forth the proposal for a 50-year all-European collective security treaty, the Russians meet head-on the argument that they want only to break down NATO and to leave the satellite states as well as Germany unprotected against a future aggressor.

5. The raising of Soviet hopes that the U. S. arms effort will be slowed down so that Russia can catch up.

What the Western Allies Got:

A. Worldwide publicity for the viewpoint of the West with a reiteration of basic principles originally proclaimed in the Atlantic Charter. This is important inside the satellite states where unrest admittedly can be the biggest headache for Soviet Russia and eventually be the means of breaking down the present regime in the Kremlin.

B. A dramatic rebuttal of the Soviet propaganda of the last ten years that America is a "warmonger" and aggressor engaged in building alliances which encircle Russia with air bases just for the purpose of attack. Even the Russian spokesmen at Geneva had to say publicly many kind words about the peaceful purposes expressed by President Eisenhower. This alone was worth to America the entire trouble of a presidential trip to Geneva. For the worldwide propaganda battle is more important than most Americans realize.

C. An effective manifestation of the moral force of the free world with a spectacular display of Allied unity. This is of incalculable value in building a demand for peace that must inevitably overflow the borders of the iron curtain countries and seep through to the people's beyond.

D. The decision to put the same issues as were discussed last week before another four-power conference of foreign ministers at Geneva in October. This means that the pressure for peace continues with intensity.

E. Relaxation of war tension for the time being. This is an advantage but it also has its dangers. For if the West gives the impression that it will accept the Russian concept of "peaceful co-existence" it could be interpreted by the liberty-loving elements behind the Iron Curtain as an acceptance by the West of the "status quo," a freezing of the existing condition of slavery in eastern Europe, and a removal of all hope of liberation as the West may allow trade in strategic goods to build up the power of the Kremlin over the people.

American statesmen, however, can be expected to exercise care in the next few months to eliminate any such misunderstandings.

Based on what has been revealed thus far and assuming that there have been no promises made in private by the U. S. delegation, Geneva's conference—on balance—appears to have been more of a plus than a minus for the West.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Geneva — The Manchester Guardian is an English paper which maintains a correspondent in New York whose dispatches to the Mother Country often depict our country and ourselves in repulsive terms. It is hard to disagree with his representations because any honest American must admit that our summers are terribly warm and humid, that the streets of New York are, with few exceptions, filthy, that our swanky set is vain, extravagant and not genteel, and that hamburgers bought at public places are likely to be unappetizing.

On the other hand, although Americans go to Manchester only on unavoidable commercial business, those who do go could fairly return these compliments in detail or in kind. Manchester will never be called the garden spot of the world except in derision. As against the hamburger, Manchester, and all Britain must defend the kippered herring or kipper.

There is a disadvantage to the United States in this sort of journalism, which is not confined to the Guardian. Some British papers of mountainous circulation wielding considerable influence over the opinion and emotions of the vastly predominant lower classes, are obsessed with a gnawing jealousy and harp on this theme year after year. Our press prints only political news from Britain plus a little theatrical stuff and trivial but generally amiable features. The disadvantage to us is not serious. We did rescue the mother country in two wars, but Roosevelt severed their lifeline and dissolved their empire. And, in consequence of Teheran and Yalta, where Roosevelt sneered at Churchill, Britain actually is, as many exasperated Britons have pointed out, an American air-base for the war with Russia if and when it comes. That is the fact and the poor devils are stuck with it.

These observations are not at all hostile to the British people. They are tempered with a vain wish that our country had been represented at Teheran, Yalta, and Potsdam, too, by agents of our destiny as patriotic as Winston Churchill. Geneva is an observation post for all the enemies of the world and peace is her principal industry, surpassing watches, cheese and cuckoo clocks combined. She is prosperous with dignity, her people are markedly more vigorous than ours—or the British—and the beauty of her lake and her countryside has been sung with a fidelity to truth absent from our tributes to Dixie.

Neither people would have it otherwise, of course, but there are spiritual fundamentals which forbid real trust and affection between the American people and the English.

Granted that our hot dog is a horror to the British palate, the fact remains to balance that abhorrence that when lightning struck the Ascot races recently one of the London papers unblushingly reported that many of the crowd were "milling around the stalls for tea, ice cream and jellied eels."

Did Eisenhower think he could really dispel suspicion and repugnance between a hamburger people and a people who eat jellied eels?

Further in the same vein, when an English woman was repatriated from Czechoslovakia where she had been in prison, she exclaimed that she was looking for a kipper, which is a herring so decadent as to deserve decent burial.

Still further, a British firm with insight into the British notion of delicacy advertises an ingredient for a sauce to mitigate or enhance the qualities of the kipper as follows: "Fillip for herrings. Serve them with homemade mustard sauce! Grill or fry the herrings and keep hot. Make a white sauce with ½ pt. milk, nut of margarine, seasoning and one level teaspoonful 'patent' cornflour, following directions on packet. One heaped teaspoon mustard. Mix smoothly with a little vinegar and stir in. Serve herrings with plenty of sauce."

Keith Waterhouse, a journalist of standing, had an essay, profound in the new English idiom, about excessive hours worked by English truckdrivers since the industry was returned to private ownership. I do not attempt to interpret the head on the article which said: "A-1 for fiddling. Where the code of the road cocks a snook at the law."

One more citation and I am done explaining that we shall never embrace except in the shuddering clasp of cousins.

This is a quote from a column entitled "By the Way" written by Beach-Comber.":

"The absence of a famous name from the herds of carnival queens this summer has been remarked upon. But Mimsie Slopcorner is not likely to repeat the mistake she made when she consented to be the plastic dustbin queen of Bibthrope-Cum-Fuddley. 'One never knows what one will find in a dustbin nowadays,' said the mayor with forced bonhomie. This year she is said to be considering an offer to officiate as the Gasworks Fairy Princess of Smogworthy."

NIXON'S STAR

Richard M. Nixon has been about the "workingest" vice president in history. President Eisenhower has not hesitated to load him down with responsible tasks, and he has responded with relish. As a result, his power and influence are far greater than is usual for a vice president.

Nixon's star rose even higher when he was placed in charge of domestic affairs during the chief executive's trip to Geneva. Mr. Eisenhower, in effect, made his young vice president "substitute president" while he himself was out of the country.

Specifically, Vice President Nixon was instructed to preside at a regular cabinet meeting. The president also authorized him to hold any necessary conferences with congressional leaders to speed up vital legislation as congress nears adjournment time.

The constitution gives the vice president no executive responsibility. He can exercise only such executive power as is delegated to him by the president. By making Nixon "substitute president" during his absence from Washington, President Eisenhower has clearly given him a notable stamp of approval. That could have great significance, especially if Mr. Eisenhower should choose not to run for another term.

RECKLESS WATER DRIVING

A man stood on a diving raft fifty yards out from a lake shore, watching a number of children diving and swimming. Suddenly he became aware that the snarl of a power boat, one of several zooming on the lake, was much closer.

He looked up in alarm and saw that the boat was sweeping in close to the raft. He counted heads hurriedly, saw that one of the children was missing—probably swimming under water.

Frantically, he waved to the power-boat driver and yelled at him to swing wide. The driver merely grinned and swept in close to the raft. As the raft bobbed in the wake, straining at its cables, the missing child popped up, unhurt.

Unhurt, yes—but no thanks to the youth at the controls of that boat. His craft, with with deadly propeller churning, had passed directly over the lad swimming under water. Call it luck that the boy was not maimed or killed.

Irresponsible driving is just as bad on water as on land. The man at the controls of a power boat should be exactly as careful, should obey the rules as conscientiously, as a man driving a fast car on a crowded highway.

Too many people with new motorboats know nothing of the basic physical laws which underlie navigation and have never troubled to look up the rules governing their local waters. Why are there not tests for licenses as there are for drivers of cars?

THE BITER BIT

Everybody likes to see a designing man fall into his own trap all the more, perhaps, because it does not happen too often. This is a true tale of two speculators who bought a handsome old city apartment house. They made all the long-established tenants leave so that their successors could be charged double rent. But before they got the new lodgers in, they conceived the idea of making even more money by splitting the large apartments up into smaller ones. A real killing seemed certain.

Just then they found that they had overlooked something. A city ordinance requires the construction of new apartments to be accompanied by adequate parking space. Such space did not exist in that neighborhood. As a sequel, it was several months before the building could be filled again and then at lower rents.

The speculative owners have been shown a lesson which wiser business men know well: It is always better to be satisfied with a reasonable profit.

You can tell that next year is a presidential election year. Candidates are denying that they are candidates at an ever increasing rate.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THINGS READ TOO LATE

For many years, it has only too often been told to the American people that huge amounts of munitions have been sent to Nationalist China, which disappeared somewhere in Asia. The enemies of Nationalist China even repeated the tale that the Nationalists sold the American-provided munitions to the Japanese.

Now comes a curious document out of the Morgenthau diaries, a gold mine of historic data, made available by the Eastland Committee. It is dated September 26, 1939, 11:15 a. m. It is a transcript of a conference at which were Ambassador Hu Shih of Nationalist China, then engaged in a war against Japan that had already lasted eight years; Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Secretary of the Treasury, and Joseph P. Cotton of the Export-Import Bank. Harry Dexter White came in later.

Hu Shih says:

". . . The French Government forbids Chinese munitions, motor cars and gasoline—they specified these three things: Chinese munitions, motor cars and gasoline—from passing through French Indo-China.

"H.M., Jr. That is serious.

"Ambassador. That is very serious. One of those things we were afraid. . . .

"H.M., Jr. They won't permit what to go through? Munitions?

"Ambassador. Munitions, motor cars and gasoline. . . .

"Mr. Cotton. These are purchases already made?

"Ambassador. All purchases already made. . . .

"H.M., Jr. Humph!"

This is one of many instances of the diversion of munitions that were sent to Nationalist China. Other instances have been reported to Congressional committees. It was the period when Lauchlin Currie was in the White House, Harry Dexter White in the Treasury, Alger Hiss in the State Department.

Hu Shih does not ask for something for nothing. He puts his proposition on a business basis. He says:

"The President (Roosevelt) was very much interested. He asked about certain details. For example, payment of this last credit, and I reported that three installments had been paid on it. He was very much pleased. He said, 'That is highly complimentary; that alone should be a good excuse of renewing or extending more credits.' And he asked about securities. I told him that I learned from Mr. K. P. Chen that wood oil, tung oil, the annual production is about 44,000 tons a year and in about five years, under the contract, in five years the total production will be about 220,000 tons. At the market price of $440.00 a ton, that would be enough, would be in five years' time worth $96,000,000.

"Then I also reported to the President that just that week my Government had notified Mr. Chen and myself that the Central Government was taking over the tin, the control of the tin, production of tin, which constitutes about 70 per cent of the world's production, which amounts to 10,000 tons a year from the Province of Yunnan and 3,000 tons from the Province of Kwangsi, so about 13,000 tons a year, and tin at that time was worth $1,100 a ton and now, in two weeks' time, I am told, the price is $1,200 a ton. So that, if we talk in terms of five years, the tin would be worth at least between $60,000,000 or $70,000,000. The President was interested in this. He said, 'I will see the Secretary of the Treasury.'"

So, with whom was Ambassador Hu Shih to negotiate? Naturally, with Harry Dexter White, the man who was exposed by J. Edgar Hoover, under oath, as a Russian agent.

Documents such as this are usually published too late for any practical purposes. White is dead. But Hu Shih is very much alive, working at Princeton at his specialty which is philosophy. Henry Morgenthau, Jr., is alive, but he cannot improve on his diaries. He must have had his office wired for recording, as every word of every conference has been taken down and is available for the historian.

The few documents which the Eastland Committee has made public clearly show what a treasure-trove these diaries are and it would be to the public good if they were all made available, if for no other reason than that history can be made more correct.

For instance, it could be valuable to students of inflation to have the entire story of the American-arranged inflation of Nationalist China. Many accounts have been written, pro and con, by persons who could not know the entire story.

That Body of Yours

RETURN OF ADENOIDS

It may come as a surprise to many of us to learn that adenoids grow in again in many cases after they have been removed, along with the tonsils. We are so used to thinking that once the tonsils and adenoids have been removed we do not have to think about them again, that to learn that some research physicians have found that adenoid tissue grows in again in three-quarters of the total number of cases is quite unexpected information. To be sure, the recurrence rate of adenoids seems to differ very widely with the various investigators, some finding recurrence of adenoids in only a small percentage, as low as four to eight per cent, and others finding it as high as three in every four.

In a series presented in the Canadian Medical Association Journal, Dr. Borys Tolczynski, of Yorkton, Sask., adenoids of some type were found in 88 patients out of 150 (54.6 per cent). All of them had previously had their tonsils and adenoids "removed."

While adenoids have their own cycle of development, appearing at their height in mid-childhood and disappearing after puberty, it is thought that there may be some factors, aside from poor results of operation, which might influence that cycle of growth. Some of these are:

1. Dietary habits: low vitamin, low mineral and low protein (meat, eggs, fish, fowl) diet.

2. Allergy: it is thought that allergy or sensitiveness to various substances might be responsible for regrowth of the adenoids and that this might be prevented by giving treatment for nasal allergy after the adenoids have first been removed.

3. Heredity: some children develop adenoids more than others because they have inherited this tendency.

4. Age of the child at time of operation: there is a belief that the younger a child is at the time of adenoidectomy (operation for removal of adenoids), the more likely that the adenoids grow in again and this appears to be true. On the other hand in older children the adenoids are approaching the time when they disappear by themselves which might account for the lower rate of return of adenoids at the older age level.

5. It may be that nature herself causes the regrowth of adenoids in younger children. The adenoid is a barrier against infection in the upper respiratory tract and is part of a defensive system which nature may be trying to replace by growing more adenoid tissue when some has been removed.

6. It is more difficult to perform a clean adenoidectomy (leaving no tags) than it is to perform a clean tonsillectomy as the operator is "working in the dark" with the adenoids.

Dr. Tolczynski feels that more successful adenoidectomies will be performed when the direct-vision type of operation is more widely adopted.

Being allergic or sensitive to various foods, pollens and other substances can give rise to many irritating symptoms. "Now Do Be Careful and Don't Get Lost!"

Edson's Washington News Notebook

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA) — Russian Premier Bulganin's Geneva bid for "strengthening economic ties" and "the development of trade" is viewed with considerable interest in Washington. Foreign Minister Molotov pitched the same woo at the United Nations' 10th birthday party in San Francisco.

Some American experts on Russia have come to the conclusion that what Russia really needs and what she is angling for now is a long term credit from the west. They say the Soviet badly needs capital to complete its industrialization.

It is recalled that at the end of the war, Russia asked for a one billion dollar credit from the United States. The request, which came in to Leo Crowley of the wartime Foreign Economic Administration, accidentally or on purpose got lost.

After Mr. Crowley had left town, the request was found in his files by the State Department. It was then made public with some embarrassment and considerable amusement. Nobody took it seriously. And nothing was ever done about it.

WHEN THE MARSHALL PLAN was begun in 1947, Russia was given a chance to join. As a member, she could have obtained not only credit but grants for rehabilitation. Russia chose to stay out, to her loss and the western world's gain.

So now the question comes up for a third time through an approach from the Russians for more international trade.

Soviet Russia's foreign commerce is now rated sixth in the world. Its imports last year were reported at the equivalent of one billion dollars, exports 900 million.

For comparison, U. S. imports last year were valued at 10 billion dollars, exports 13 billion.

Premier Bulganin made the point at Geneva that Russia could get along without restoration of normal trade relations with other countries. The inference he was apparently trying to make here was that his country was not leading from weakness.

But it is acknowledged that the Soviet economy has always been tight. Being a Communist country, it has no inflow of capital from other countries for investment purposes. And it has no capital accumulation of its own.

WHENEVER THE RUSSIANS want to finance same new development—like their atomic power plant, a new railroad or canal system—they have to take the capital out of the hides of their people. Some of it is in the form of slave labor.

A shift in emphasis of as little as 5 per cent from one program in a five-year plan has always been done at the expense of some other program, it is pointed out.

Former Premier Malenkov in 1953 said 70 per cent of the Soviet economy went to heavy industry. He wanted to change this and give the Russian people more consumers' goods.

Many of these consumers' goods had to be imported, however, and Russia had little to offer in trade.

When the new Bulganin-Khruschev crowd displaced Malenkov, they went back to the Stalin era emphasis on capital goods production.

This emphasis on heavy industry has of course been responsible for the growing industrialization of Russia.

TO INDUSTRALIZE the country, the Soviet had to educate skilled workers. They are the factory managers of today, the closest thing Russia has to an economic middle class.

These "bourgeoisie" have created new demands for consumer goods and luxuries. But whether the new governing crowd in the Kremlin is now going back to a greater emphasis on consumer goods is not yet clear.

These points may be clarified by Russian moves to liberalize international trade after the Geneva conference is over.

It is believed that one of these moves will be a call for a world trade meeting to break down the western world's restrictions against exports of strategic materials to Communist countries, and the freeing of international credit lines for expanded Communist imports.

What the Western Allies Got:

A. Worldwide publicity for the viewpoint of the West with a reiteration of basic principles originally proclaimed in the Atlantic Charter. This is important inside the satellite states where unrest admittedly can be the biggest headache for Soviet Russia and eventually be the means of breaking down the present regime in the Kremlin.

B. A dramatic rebuttal of the Soviet propaganda of the last ten years that America is a "warmonger" and aggressor engaged in building alliances which encircle Russia with air bases just for the purpose of attack. Even the Russian spokesmen at Geneva had to say publicly many kind words about the peaceful purposes expressed by President Eisenhower. This alone was worth to America the entire trouble of a presidential trip to Geneva. For the worldwide propaganda battle is more important than most Americans realize.

C. An effective manifestation of the moral force of the free world with a spectacular display of Allied unity. This is of incalculable value in building a demand for peace that must inevitably overflow the borders of the iron curtain countries and seep through to the people's beyond.

D. The decision to put the same issues as were discussed last week before another four-power conference of foreign ministers at Geneva in October. This means that the pressure for peace continues with intensity.

E. Relaxation of war tension for the time being. This is an advantage but it also has its dangers. For if the West gives the impression that it will accept the Russian concept of "peaceful co-existence" it could be interpreted by the liberty-loving elements behind the Iron Curtain as an acceptance by the West of the "status quo," a freezing of the existing condition of slavery in eastern Europe, and a removal of all hope of liberation as the West may allow trade in strategic goods to build up the power of the Kremlin over the people.

American statesmen, however, can be expected to exercise care in the next few months to eliminate any such misunderstandings.

Based on what has been revealed thus far and assuming that there have been no promises made in private by the U. S. delegation, Geneva's conference—on balance—appears to have been more of a plus than a minus for the West.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Geneva — The Manchester Guardian is an English paper which maintains a correspondent in New York whose dispatches to the Mother Country often depict our country and ourselves in repulsive terms. It is hard to disagree with his representations because any honest American must admit that our summers are terribly warm and humid, that the streets of New York are, with few exceptions, filthy, that our swanky set is vain, extravagant and not genteel, and that hamburgers bought at public places are likely to be unappetizing.

On the other hand, although Americans go to Manchester only on unavoidable commercial business, those who do go could fairly return these compliments in detail or in kind. Manchester will never be called the garden spot of the world except in derision. As against the hamburger, Manchester, and all Britain must defend the kippered herring or kipper.

There is a disadvantage to the United States in this sort of journalism, which is not confined to the Guardian. Some British papers of mountainous circulation wielding considerable influence over the opinion and emotions of the vastly predominant lower classes, are obsessed with a gnawing jealousy and harp on this theme year after year. Our press prints only political news from Britain plus a little theatrical stuff and trivial but generally amiable features. The disadvantage to us is not serious. We did rescue the mother country in two wars, but Roosevelt severed their lifeline and dissolved their empire. And, in consequence of Teheran and Yalta, where Roosevelt sneered at Churchill, Britain actually is, as many exasperated Britons have pointed out, an American air-base for the war with Russia if and when it comes. That is the fact and the poor devils are stuck with it.

These observations are not at all hostile to the British people. They are tempered with a vain wish that our country had been represented at Teheran, Yalta, and Potsdam, too, by agents of our destiny as patriotic as Winston Churchill. Geneva is an observation post for all the enemies of the world and peace is her principal industry, surpassing watches, cheese and cuckoo clocks combined. She is prosperous with dignity, her people are markedly more vigorous than ours—or the British—and the beauty of her lake and her countryside has been sung with a fidelity to truth absent from our tributes to Dixie.

Neither people would have it otherwise, of course, but there are spiritual fundamentals which forbid real trust and affection between the American people and the English.

Granted that our hot dog is a horror to the British palate, the fact remains to balance that abhorrence that when lightning struck the Ascot races recently one of the London papers unblushingly reported that many of the crowd were "milling around the stalls for tea, ice cream and jellied eels."

Did Eisenhower think he could really dispel suspicion and repugnance between a hamburger people and a people who eat jellied eels?

Further in the same vein, when an English woman was repatriated from Czechoslovakia where she had been in prison, she exclaimed that she was longing for a kipper, which is a herring so decadent as to deserve decent burial.

Still further, a British firm with insight into the British notion of delicacy advertises an ingredient for a sauce to mitigate or enhance the qualities of the kipper as follows: "Fillip for herrings. Serve them with homemade mustard sauce! Grill or fry the herrings and keep hot. Make a white sauce with ½ pt. milk, nut of margarine, seasoning and one level teaspoonful 'patent' cornflour, following directions on packet. One heaped teaspoon mustard. Mix smoothly with a little vinegar and stir in. Serve herrings with plenty of sauce."

Keith Waterhouse, a journalist of standing, had an essay, profound in the new English idiom, about excessive hours worked by English truckdrivers since the industry was returned to private ownership. I do not attempt to interpret the head on the article which said: "A-1 for fiddling. Where the code of the road cocks a snook at the law."

One more citation and I am done explaining that we shall never embrace except in the shuddering clasp of cousins.

This is a quote from a column entitled "By the Way" written by Beach-Comber.":

"The absence of a famous name from the herds of carnival queens this summer has been remarked upon. But Mimsie Slopcorner is not likely to repeat the mistake she made when she consented to be the plastic dustbin queen of Bibthrope-Cum-Fuddley. 'One never knows what one will find in a dustbin nowadays,' said the mayor with forced bonhomie. This year she is said to be considering an offer to officiate as the Gasworks Fairy Princess of Smogworthy."

Veteran Premier Of Iran Dead, 80

Tehran, Iran, July 25 (AP)—Funeral services were held yesterday for Ahmed Qavam Es Sultaneh, veteran former premier who took the lead in forcing the Russians to end their protracted occupation of northern Iran after World War 2.

Premier Hussein Ala's cabinet and members of Parliament attended the services for Qavam, who died Saturday at his home here after a long illness. The body was transferred to Qum, shrine city near Tehran, for burial. Qavam was believed to be about 80.

Sardarfakher Hekmet, speaker of the Majlis, lower house of Parliament, delivered the funeral eulogy. He praised Qavam's "nationalistic moves" in 1946-47 in the face of Soviet threats to Iran's independence.

QAVAM was premier five times. He had just been named for his third term in January, 1946, when the dispute with Russia flared into the open. The Russians were refusing to end their wartime occupation and had established pro-Soviet regime in the northern province of Azerbaijan.

Qavam tried to settle the controversy on a trip to Moscow but failed. Then, with few resources, he defied the Kremlin and appealed to the United Nations Security Council. The Russians gave in and withdrew their troops, and the Red regime in Azerbaijan collapsed. The UN had won its first test of strength.

Qavam was renamed premier after the 1947 national election but was forced out later that year on a vote of confidence.

WHEN Mohammed Mossadegh, Extremist Nationalist leader, won power in 1951 after the assassination of Premier Ali Razmara, Qavam was branded an enemy of Iranian independence. The Shah named him premier when Mossadegh resigned in 1952, but he was forced out of office two days later when Mossadegh's followers staged bloody street riots and restored their leader to power.

Qavam, although seriously ill and needing medical treatment abroad, was kept under house arrest until an uprising overthrew Mossadegh in 1953. Qavam then flew to France and Switzerland for treatment, returning last year.

'What Are the Hours?'

By FRANK TRIPP

If you want to make a book on the future—one pretty sure to win—bet that the clock watchers, the "what are the hours" boys, will end up with plenty of hours on their hands—and patches on their pants.

The idea that it's cute to skin through life by contributing just as little as possible to it has developed into a work-dodging mania.

That full-grown men, with families on their hands, kid themselves into believing that idleness can sustain their standard of living is, perhaps, somewhat their own business.

That their example leads youth to idleness and a false philosophy of life is alarming to those who have given it thought.

IN THE past few months three fond parents sent their loving sons to me to take over my job. Each was deeply concerned about only two things. Neither had to do with years of drudgery to fit him for leadership.

They all wanted to know how little they had to work and how much they could get for it.

None of the three was even glancing ahead to a day when uncounted willing hours would pay their reward. There wasn't one honest symptom of pride, eagerness or hope for a newspaper career.

All they wanted was pay enough now, for a few hours work, to give them money to spend in the many hours they aim to loaf.

This attitude is so prevalent that it is threatening many lines of business, professions and trades wherein proficiency must be developed by sacrifice, diligence, and experience—in short, the hard way.

WHEN THE THIRD in a row of three young leeches made his appearance I went to the mat with him.

"Why are you so worried about the hours you work?" I asked.

"Why shouldn't I?" he said. "Only suckers work long hours any more."

"Oh, they do, eh?" I replied. "You just follow the folks around who keep the wheels turning so others like you can work 40 hours a week or less and see how long they work.

"You don't want to learn the newspaper business. You want to join up with something or other that's got you to thinking that nobody works any more."

Then I told him that he belongs where pay and hours are the main objectives, where craftsmanship need only amount to a "get-by" level; where the expert carries the botch on his back and the energetic carry the loafers.

I told him he didn't belong where hours are an investment in the future, where toil is the development of a career, where patience is the hope of security, and of humanity.

I told him that no man ever gained leadership by watching the clock. That men still get to the places they covet by working 60- and 70-hour weeks for long years; that they invest their time, don't squander it.

TWO LADS of equal ability may start out together at age 20 and enter the same work. At 40 one may have twice the success of the other. By the calendar, both have been 20 years with a company or in a profession.

By the clock one may gain twice the experience of the other, know twice as much, have twice the honors, earn twice the money. Because he spent twice the time on his job.

Experience is not the number of years a man has lived off of his vocation. It is the number of hours he has given to it.

Newspapers Get Credit for Good City Government

Seattle, July 25 (AP) — Newspapers have been the dominating force in bringing about wholesome good government in most cities in the United States, William R. Mathews of Tucson, Ariz., declared today.

Mathews, publisher and editor of the Arizona Daily Star, was chairman of a panel on "Challenge to the Press—Our Mushrooming Cities," one of five held in connection with the opening day's activities of the 61st Annual National Conference on Government.

The other panels and their chairmen were: "Local Election Systems," Francis A. Harrington, Worcester, Mass.; "Let Our Governors Govern! Strengthening State Management," George A. Shipman, University of Washington; "The Business Citizen's Role in Civic Affairs," Lee M. Sharrar, Houston, Tex.; and "Hogtied Cities—The Fight for Home Rule," Arthur W. Bromage, University of Michigan.

MATHEWS said in his prepared talk that newspapers have been effective in the last 50 years in changing the trend of municipal government "Because they have seen that it is to their interest to promote honest, progressive and relatively efficient municipal government."

"This is an encouraging sign," he continued, "not merely because it heralds benefits to the cities, but reflects a healthy situation at the grass roots of our country. If we have good government at the municipal level we will have it at the state and national levels."

Other members of the newspaper panel were: Robert B. Atwood, editor and publisher of the Anchorage (Alaska) Daily Times; Richard G. Baumhoff, of the administrative staff of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch; Ross L. Cunningham, associate editor of the Seattle Times; Homer E. Dowdy, Flint (Mich.) Journal; Vice Adm. George R. Henderson, USN (retired), consultant to the President and publisher of the San Diego Union; Franklin C. McPeak, public relations director, McClatchy newspapers, Calif.; J. Richard Nokes, city editor of the Portland (Ore.) Oregonian; and William M. Tugman, publisher of the Port Umpqua Courier, Reedsport, Ore.

SOME OF the new problems faced by the metropolitan press through the mushroom spread of American cities in recent times were discussed by Baumhoff. Among these he listed: "How to cover and report the news of the extensive metropolitan areas with their numerous overlapping governmental jurisdictions, and how to maintain advertising revenue and keep advertisers in the face of growing decentralization of local commerce.

"This is a new kind of city," Baumhoff said. "It tends, in fact though not in law, toward the idea of a city-state . . . the great bulk of the nation's growth (since 1940) has been in the metropolitan districts — and by far the biggest part of the metropolitan growth has been in the sprawling suburban and satellite-town areas outside the old and frequently obsolete or obsolescent central cities."

How would you play today's hand at a contract of four spades? Would you see the danger and take proper precautions, or would you just trust to good luck?

West leads the queen of hearts, and you play the king of hearts from the dummy. What do you play from your own hand?

When the hand was actually played, South didn't see the danger. He discarded a diamond on dummy's king of hearts, and he then led a low trump from the dummy.

West took the ace of spades and wondered what to do. He expected to win both of the black aces, and he guessed that his own partner had the missing ace of diamonds. The setting trick could come only from a ruff. West could ruff nothing himself, but there was a chance that his partner could ruff a club.

Having come to this conclusion, West led the ace of clubs and continued with another club. East ruffed, and prudently cashed the ace of diamonds to set the contract at once.

South should have foreseen the danger from the very beginning. He was bound to lose three aces, and the contract would be safe if he could guard against a ruff. There was no way of guarding against a diamond ruff, but something could be done about the clubs.

The correct play is to discard a club on the king of hearts at the first trick and to lead the ace of hearts immediately in order to discard another club. Only then is it safe to lead a trump to knock out the ace of spades. The defenders can then take only their three aces.

It must be admitted that West could defeat the contract by leading the ace of clubs and then another club from the very beginning. Probably a diamond opening likewise would have resulted in the defeat of the contract. But when West failed to find the killing opening lead, it was up to South to play the hand safely.

'What Are the Hours?'

By FRANK TRIPP

If you want to make a book on the future—one pretty sure to win—bet that the clock watchers, the "what are the hours" boys, will end up with plenty of hours on their hands—and patches on their pants.

The idea that it's cute to skin through life by contributing just as little as possible to it has developed into a work-dodging mania.

That full-grown men, with families on their hands, kid themselves into believing that idleness can sustain their standard of living is, perhaps, somewhat their own business.

That their example leads youth to idleness and a false philosophy of life is alarming to those who have given it thought.

IN THE past few months three fond parents sent their loving sons to me to take over my job. Each was deeply concerned about only two things. Neither had to do with years of drudgery to fit him for leadership.

They all wanted to know how little they had to work and how much they could get for it.

None of the three was even glancing ahead to a day when uncounted willing hours would pay their reward. There wasn't one honest symptom of pride, eagerness or hope for a newspaper career.

All they wanted was pay enough now, for a few hours work, to give them money to spend in the many hours they aim to loaf.

This attitude is so prevalent that it is threatening many lines of business, professions and trades wherein proficiency must be developed by sacrifice, diligence, and experience—in short, the hard way.

WHEN THE THIRD in a row of three young leeches made his appearance I went to the mat with him.

"Why are you so worried about the hours you work?" I asked.

"Why shouldn't I?" he said. "Only suckers work long hours any more."

"Oh, they do, eh?" I replied. "You just follow the folks around who keep the wheels turning so others like you can work 40 hours a week or less and see how long they work.

"You don't want to learn the newspaper business. You want to join up with something or other that's got you to thinking that nobody works any more."

Then I told him that he belongs where pay and hours are the main objectives, where craftsmanship need only amount to a "get-by" level; where the expert carries the botch on his back and the energetic carry the loafers.

I told him he didn't belong where hours are an investment in the future, where toil is the development of a career, where patience is the hope of security, and of humanity.

I told him that no man ever gained leadership by watching the clock. That men still get to the places they covet by working 60- and 70-hour weeks for long years; that they invest their time, don't squander it.

TWO LADS of equal ability may start out together at age 20 and enter the same work. At 40 one may have twice the success of the other. By the calendar, both have been 20 years with a company or in a profession.

By the clock one may gain twice the experience of the other, know twice as much, have twice the honors, earn twice the money. Because he spent twice the time on his job.

Experience is not the number of years a man has lived off of his vocation. It is the number of hours he has given to it.

Newspapers Get Credit for Good City Government

Seattle, July 25 (AP) — Newspapers have been the dominating force in bringing about wholesome good government in most cities in the United States, William R. Mathews of Tucson, Ariz., declared today.

Mathews, publisher and editor of the Arizona Daily Star, was chairman of a panel on "Challenge to the Press—Our Mushrooming Cities," one of five held in connection with the opening day's activities of the 61st Annual National Conference on Government.

The other panels and their chairmen were: "Local Election Systems," Francis A. Harrington, Worcester, Mass.; "Let Our Governors Govern! Strengthening State Management," George A. Shipman, University of Washington; "The Business Citizen's Role in Civic Affairs," Lee M. Sharrar, Houston, Tex.; and "Hogtied Cities—The Fight for Home Rule," Arthur W. Bromage, University of Michigan.

MATHEWS said in his prepared talk that newspapers have been effective in the last 50 years in changing the trend of municipal government "Because they have seen that it is to their interest to promote honest, progressive and relatively efficient municipal government."

"This is an encouraging sign," he continued, "not merely because it heralds benefits to the cities, but reflects a healthy situation at the grass roots of our country. If we have good government at the municipal level we will have it at the state and national levels."

Other members of the newspaper panel were: Robert B. Atwood, editor and publisher of the Anchorage (Alaska) Daily Times; Richard G. Baumhoff, of the administrative staff of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch; Ross L. Cunningham, associate editor of the Seattle Times; Homer E. Dowdy, Flint (Mich.) Journal; Vice Adm. George R. Henderson, USN (retired), consultant to the President and publisher of the San Diego Union; Franklin C. McPeak, public relations director, McClatchy newspapers, Calif.; J. Richard Nokes, city editor of the Portland (Ore.) Oregonian; and William M. Tugman, publisher of the Port Umpqua Courier, Reedsport, Ore.

SOME OF the new problems faced by the metropolitan press through the mushroom spread of American cities in recent times were discussed by Baumhoff. Among these he listed: "How to cover and report the news of the extensive metropolitan areas with their numerous overlapping governmental jurisdictions, and how to maintain advertising revenue and keep advertisers in the face of growing decentralization of local commerce.

"This is a new kind of city," Baumhoff said. "It tends, in fact though not in law, toward the idea of a city-state . . . the great bulk of the nation's growth (since 1940) has been in the metropolitan districts — and by far the biggest part of the metropolitan growth has been in the sprawling suburban and satellite-town areas outside the old and frequently obsolete or obsolescent central cities."

ACKNOWLEDGING AN ENGAGEMENT

A girl asks: "Will you tell me what one is supposed to do in acknowledging an announcement of an engagement? I don't know the girl very well, but she is going to marry a young relative of mine."

Write her a note, welcoming her into the family, and say that you've always loved John (if you have) or else you say something else that is pleasant and true. In any case, say you hope he and she are both going to be very happy.

Watch vs. Ring

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me if a diamond wrist watch could have the same significance as a diamond engagement ring. I would rather have a watch than a ring, but my finance says the idea is absurd.

Answer: There is no fixed rule that you have to have a ring, although I don't think that a watch could take the place of an engagement ring. It is quite possible, however, to be engaged and even married, without having had an engagement ring. You might, perhaps, let him give you a little guard ring, which you will later wear over your wedding ring and call that an engagement ring and the watch an engagement present.

Presents for Silver Anniversary

Dear Mrs. Post: My parents will be celebrating their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary soon. I would like to make it possible for them to take an extended trip, and was wondering if it would be proper to ask the guests who will be invited to a dinner party to bring their gifts in the form of silver dollars, telling them that the money will be used for a trip for my parents.

Answer: I'm sorry that my answer has to be that you cannot ask anyone to bring money.

How long before the wedding should the engagement announcement be made public? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to Dept. EP, c/o The Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

100 Skywatchers GivenRecognition At Anniversary

The Kingston Observation Post Skywatchers celebrated their third anniversary with a birthday party Thursday evening at Governor Clinton Hotel with over 100 skywatchers in attendance, many of whom were given recognition awards for their services by Col. Thomas Hollick of Stewart Field, assisted by Major Raymond Wendell, GOC., coordinator of New York State Civil Defense.

Mrs. Dewey Logan, director, welcomed the group after the pledge of allegiance and the singing of the National Anthem with John Valentine at the piano. The invocation was given by Major H. Edgar Timmerman, assistant director of Civil Defense for the Kingston-Ulster area.

The group stood in silent prayer in memory of Major John Hilton, assistant director, and Margaret Van Steenburgh and George Fowler, skywatchers who have passed away and also in tribute to Mayor Stang's father.

Among the guests introduced by Mrs. Logan were Barbara Matthews, chief observer; Mrs. Dorothea Blume, assistant chief observer and Col. Allan L. Hanstein, director of Civil Defense, who paid a tribute to Mrs. Logan and her skywatchers for the excellent job being done.

COL. HANSTEIN NOTED that the Kingston post had been manned 24 hours a day for the past three years due to the untiring efforts of Mrs. Logan. This service was given without an recompense and he said through her efforts a large number of teen-agers, both boys and girls, had been enrolled and were doing an excellent job. In these days when teen-agers are being so severely criticized, Col. Hanstein said, he was happy to see that those of Kingston were doing such a good job for their country.

Much of the credit for keeping the post open and fully manned was due to the efforts and devotion to duty of Mrs. Logan and he paid her a high tribute. Only three posts in the county are being manned full time he noted, Kingston, Saugerties and Wallkill where a post is maintained at the prison. Posts have been started recently in New Paltz and Woodstock. Ellenville is maintaining a part-time post. The Woodstock post is under direction of Col. Wallingford, U S Army retired.

Major Vernice Hearn paid a tribute to the local post and Sgt. Samuel Moody of the White Plains Filter Center.

William J. McGrath paid a special tribue to Mrs. Logan and her staff and read a letter of commendation from Lt. Gen. C. R. Huebner, general director of the Executive Department, New York State Civil Defense Commission, addressed to Mr. Logan and presented to her after being read to the Skywatchers. McGrath said Kingston was fortunate to have a woman who had done such a marvelous job not for three years, but over a period of five years. He congratulated the staff for having such a wonderful leader. He said he had known Mrs. Logan since she joined the Ground Observer Corps and had always found her to be most cooperative and he personally vouched for the amount of time and energy she had given to this cause.

IN HIS LETTER GENERAL HUEBNER expressed his regret at not being present and extended his congratulations to the members of the post.

Mrs. Logan was presented with a Distinguished Unit Citation for the Observation Post in recognition of its outstanding performance. Major Wendall made the presentation. Col. Hollick presented Mrs. Logan with a Distinguished Achievement Award in recognition of outstanding contribution and patriotic devotion to her leadership in the Ground Observation Corps. Meritorious awards were also made to Mrs. Matthews and Mrs. Blume.

She thanked the following for their contributions toward the success of the party:

J. Ellis Briggs, James Betts, Louis Bruhn, Edward J. Conway, William Kelly, Roger Loughran, Allan Hanstein, Robert Herzog, Addison Jones, William O'Reilly, Stanley Matthews, Augustus S. Shufeldt, N. Received by Pope

Vatican City, July 24 (AP)—Pope Pius XII yesterday received U. S. Ambassador Clare Boothe Luce for her first audience since she became envoy to Italy more than two years ago. The two talked for 45 minutes in the Pope's private library. Mrs. Luce, a Roman Catholic, said she had requested the audience on a personal basis and not as an American diplomat.

Film, Concert, Dances Feature Park Programs

A motion picture, two dances and band concert highlight the week's special nocturnal activities of the Recreation Department.

The film, "Taza, Son of Cochise," with Rock Hudson and Barbara Rush will be screened at Hasbrouck Park tonight at dusk. The picture deals with the problem of Apache Indians after the death of Cochise and of the particular fight between Taza and Geronimo. The film will also be shown at Colonial Gardens on Tuesday night and at Kingston Point Beach on Wednesday evening.

The first dance of the season provided by Local 215, AF of M, will be presented at Block Park tonight from 8 to 10 p. m. The dances are supplied to the department by the musicians as part of their transcription fund. Name orchestras of the area will play for dancing.

A band concert will be presented Tuesday night at Block Park, and on Wednesday night at Hutton Park the Catskill Mountaineers will play for square dancing.

The public is invited to attend all nocturnal activities of the Recreation Department.

Visit East Berlin

Berlin, July 25 (AP)—Soviet Premier Bulganin and Communist party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev, Russia's two top leaders at the Big Four summit conference in Geneva, are spending several days in East Berlin on their way home. The other two top-level Russians at the Geneva talks, Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov and Marshal Georgi Zhukov, the defense minister, flew on to Moscow last night. With them was First Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

Baby Hippo Born

New York, July 25 (AP)—The Bronx Zoo has a new arrival—a baby hippopotamus that tips the scales at 40 pounds. A hippo born in captivity is a rare event, and zoo officials were properly excited when the birth was discovered over the weekend.

Model Railroad Club Holds Annual Picnic

The annual picnic of the Kingston Model Railroad Club, Inc., was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Eighmey in Shady on Sunday.

Members of the club, their families, and friends arrived in the afternoon to participate in swimming and horseshoe pitching.

A picnic supper was served, followed by an intense rivalry in a horseshoe match which was finally won by the "old men" of the club over the younger generation.

Providence (R. I.) Sunday Journal—"Bringing the Russians to rely upon political warfare rather than military, without putting an end to their expansionist ambitions, may seem a most modest success to claim for Geneva. Yet such is the horror of the prospect of World War 3 that even achieving a ceasefire before the war is fought can properly be called a major victory for peace."

Chicago Suntimes — "Better world conditions and an easing of world tensions should result from the Geneva conference. . . If the Geneva conference did nothing but generate good will it was successful."

New York Journal-American —"The real picture of Communist intention and aspiration was not presented at Geneva, but was to be found in the blustering of the satellites which the Russians could have toned down or silenced completely in harmony with their pretensions. That they permitted the satellites to be the architects of discord at such a time is proof of how little importance the Russians themselves attached to their own professions of good will and good faith in international relations."

The Denver Post—"The President's proposal (for mutual inspection) . . . would formalize a willingness, at least, to deal more openly in steps leading up to effective arms limitation and control. It would moreover, provide a practical test of intentions and good faith of signatories to such an agreement, without exposing ourselves to any greater danger than presently confronts us."

New York Herald Tribune—"When all else has been said and done, the week will be remembered because the Big Four did meet . . . and did talk together candidly and calmly and left with the realization that further talk would not be wholly in vain."

Lava Flow Continues

Cantania, Sicily, July 25 (AP)—Two fiery rivers of molten lava still oozed slowly today from Mt. Etna, continuing the volcanic activity that started nearly a month ago. Experts watching the erupting northeast crater of Europe's highest, 10,000-foot volcano said as yet there was no imminent danger to villages in the path of the burning lava. The closest, Fornazzo, was far below the head of the streams coursing very slowly down the Valley of the Lion. The fiery display continued to be a big attraction for the thousands of tourists now visiting Sicily's coastal towns and villages.

Four Are Missing

Lewes, Del., July 25 (AP)—Four persons on a fishing trip in Delaware Bay were reported missing today. The coast guard said it could find no signs of their 14-foot boat. The missing were identified as Mr. and Mrs. Chance T. Keene and Mr. and Mrs. James Bennett, all residents of suburban Wilmington. Heavy rains and near zero visibility occurred in the afternoon over the bay. A patrol boat was unable last night to find any trace of the craft.

Tugboat Sinks

Chicago, July 25 (AP)—Authorities conclude that three sailors drowned Saturday when the Canadian tugboat Helena tipped on its side and sank in the Calumet river. Only one body has been recovered, however. Of the 13 crewmen aboard the 117-foot tugboat when it began tilting while taking on coal at a dock, 10 escaped by jumping to an adjacent barge or swimming to shore.

The Mature Parent

Open Letter to a Teen-Age Girl Tortured by Anxiety

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Dear "Worried":

I have your letter telling me of your great fear that you have not made the proper sexual development for a girl of 15.

And I am glad you've asked me for direction. Certainly, a motherless person living with a "heavy drinking" father and a grandparent who seems "narrow-minded" to her can't ask it of them.

Here's what to do: Sit down tonight and write a letter to the National Association for Mental Health, 1790 Broadway, New York. First, ask for the address of the mental hygiene clinic nearest your town. Second, ask for the name of its directing psychiatrist. When you get this information, write and tell him what you have told me. He will find a way to get you the competent assurance for your fear.

In the meantime, let's see if we can't quiet it a little.

Sexual development, my dear, is not like school promotions. Nature doesn't promote us from childish sexual feelings into adolescent ones as a teacher passes us from grammar school to high school. She gives us no diploma to mark our graduation into full sexual maturity. In Nature, all sexual changes interfuse each other.

There's nothing unusual about this. Though people like everything clear and definite, Nature doesn't. She mingles day and night in what we call "dusk." She makes changing tides interflow each other. She makes winter chill penetrate a day that belongs to April on human calendars—and deals with sexual seasons in exactly the same way.

She protects childish sexual feelings into adolescence and makes adolescence linger on in adults until she's ready to complete the change.

If adolescent people understood this, they would be more patient with their uncertain bodies.

As it is, boys feel terribly humiliated when their voices begin a sentence with a child's voice—and end it with the booming baritone of a man. If fat hasn't appeared where a girl thinks it should, she tortures herself with suspicion that her body has betrayed her. Yet, as this uncertainty of the body is the right thing, impatience with it is most unreasonable.

Nearly always, this anxiety about the body's development is just an excuse for anxiety about other problems. For example, your father's interest in the divorcee you mention could have aroused a good deal of uncertainty about his feeling for you. It could be very easy to imagine that your body had betrayed you if you hadn't looked at your fear that your father might have betrayed in mind.

That's why I want you to take your fear to someone who understands these things.

Amends Land Laws

Washington, July 23 (AP)—President Eisenhower today signed a bill amending public land laws and applauded it as putting "a stop to such practices" as filing mining claims to obtain control of timber, summer home sites or grazing land and water.

BEATING THE HEAT—It may give him a tummyache, but 7-month-old Joey Jordon will at least be cool for a while. The little citizen of Greenville, S.C., is about to dig into a huge slice of iced watermelon, a method of beating the heat that's much older than Joey.

DIAL THREE TIMES FOR TIME—If you get at least three telephone calls a day, this new idea in timekeeping might interest you. It's a watch that snaps into the middle of a telephone dial and is kept wound by three telephone calls each day. Above, Ingeborg King tries the telephone watch, created by Elgin, at the National Jewelry Fair in Elgin, Ill.

WINTRY TEASE—Pretty Janice Bowles teases perspiring Officer James F. Millwood with a snowball sundae in Memphis, Tenn. The snowballs are part of 500 shipped from Akron, Ohio, for a summertime snowball fight staged by the Southern Garment Manufacturers, who met recently in Memphis.

To Move Supplies

Washington, July 25 (AP)—The navy's largest foray into Arctic waters will move supplies and equipment this summer for building the Distant Early Warning (DEW) line of radar across the top of the world. The operation will involve 117 ships, including icebreakers, cargo vessels, tankers and various types of landing craft. The ships will depart soon from both east and west coast ports, the navy announced Saturday night. DEW line radar, under construction across Alaska and northern Canada, is designed to give the continent earlier advance warning of any enemy air attack from the north.

Stock Actor Drowns

Clayton, N. Y., July 25 (AP)—The body of David Pelton, 23-year-old summer stock actor, was recovered yesterday from the St. Lawrence river. Pelton was drowned last Thursday in an attempt to swim to Washington Island, a mile from shore. He was with the Thousand Island Playhouse Company.

"It should not be discouraging that both sides disagreed on some important questions," the 79-year-old chancellor added. "It is impossible to relieve world tension in six days or six weeks. All we need now is hopeful patience.

"Much more tedious work is necessary to continue the progress of the Geneva conference, which was a successful start toward the easing of world tension."

Asked if the Geneva conference would have any effect on his coming trip to Moscow, he replied:

"I think one should consider the trip to Moscow independently and not in connection with Geneva."

Legion Juniors Stop Albany, 3-0, Win District 3 Crown

Down Catskill, 8-3, In Semi-final Contest

Thanks to some great pitcing by Bob Maines and Lorenzo "Rennie" Giannuzzi, the American Legion Junior baseball team today reigns as New York State District 3 champions.

The Old Capital Motors squad took the clincher yesterday at Albany's Hawkins, 3-0, behind the four-hit pitching of Bob Maines to complete a string of three impressive victories in three straight days.

In the semi-final struggle Saturday afternoon, Giannuzzi stopped Catskill, 8-3, with a three-hitter. Friday night in the first game of the District 3 playoffs, Kingston clubbed Eldred, the Sullivan county winners, by the fantastic score of 31-0. Maines and Bob Short shared the pitching chores and yielded only two hits between them.

The next stop for Manager Tommy Maines' tossers in their quest for state honors is a duel with Schenectady Friday night. The site of this state quarter-final contest has not been decided.

Maines went all the way in the title game yesterday. He was never in trouble. The ace lefthander struck out 14 men and walked three. He also chipped in with two of his team's five hits off losing pitcher Les VanPatten.

RONNIE ASHDOWN, Kingston catcher, also played a vital role. Ronnie picked a runner off first base on one occasion and on another he pegged out a man trying to steal second. The local backstop got two hits.

Effective pitching was also the big reason behind Kingston's win over Catskill in the semi-final. Lorenzo "Renny" Giannuzzi was the winner of this one, allowing only three hits in the six innings he worked. Maines pitched the seventh frame.

The locals got 12 hits in this encounter, with Ashdown, Maines, Eric Blackwell, Bill Cragin and Ronnie Ferraro swatting two apiece.

Kingston's scoring against Albany came at the extremes of the game—the first and final innings.

After Ashdown had been retired in the first, Joe Hoffman beat out an infield roller. Blackwell made the second out on a fly to center.

WITH SKIP Broadhead at bat Hoffman stole second. Brodhead tapped a roller to short for what should have been the third out, but Albany's Bruce Walsh sailed his throw over first base.

Hoffman scored on the play and Brodhead ended up on second. Skip took third on a passed ball and scored when Maines singled to right.

Ferraro tallied in the seventh. He worked Van Patten for a walk and was sacrified to second by Johnny Culjak. Ashdown socked a double to left to bring in the run. Ronnie got no further, being tagged after a rundown between second and third when Hoffman hit a grounder.

Giannuzzi fanned and walked four Catskill players. He gave up runs in the first, third and sixth frames. Dave Hitchcock started for Catskill and lasted two and two-thirds innings. He was the loser. Bill Peterson finished.

KINGSTON WENT ahead and stayed ahead with three in the bottom of the frame.

Ashdown walked, stole second and came home on Hoffman's two-bagger. Hoffman, taking third on a wild pitch, scored when Blackwell singled. Blackwell came around on a stolen base and Maines' hit to short center.

The locals got a run across on Ashdown's double in the second. Ferraro's triple, Cragan's single and two Catskill errors were instrumental in two Kingston runs in the third.

The locals pounded Peterson for three hits and two runs in the fifth after two were out. Maines had a double and Cragan and Ferraro hit singles.

Giannuzzi got himself in hot water in the fifth, when Catskill loaded the bases with one away. But "Renny" got Bill Stafford out on a high popup to Ashdown and then the Kingston lefty fanned Roscoe Lacy to end the threat.

Hot Springs, Va., July 25 (AP)—Betty Jameson of San Antonio, Tex., and Mary Lena Faulk, of Thomasville, Ga., posted a two-under-par 72 here yesterday to win top prize money in the $6,500 four-ball Hot Springs womens' golf tournament.

Their 72-hole total of 280 was three strokes better than that scored by the second place team of Beverly Hanson of Indio, Calif., and Mickey Wright, of Lajolla, Calif.

Trabert's Victory Pleases Cup Moguls; Seixas Worries Them

Philadelphia, July 25 (AP)—U. S. Davis Cup leaders wore broad smiles today after another superlative performance by Tony Trabert and his broad hint that he'd like to remain in the amateur tennis ranks.

The 24-year-old Cincinnati resident needed only 53 minutes yesterday to dispose of Cup teammate Vic Seixas 6-1, 6-2, 6-3, in winning the Pennsylvania Lawn Tennis championship. He appeared in top form for the upcoming U. S. championship and Davis Cup competitions.

IN ACCEPTING the championship cup at the Merion Cricket Club, Tony announced "one of these days I hope to come back to play at Merion again." The club hosts only amateur tournaments.

But if Trabert's performance brought smiles to the Davis Cup fathers, they must have been at least a little worried by the play of Seixas, defending U. S. titlist and the probable second U. S. representative against the Australian challenge for the cup.

Siexas was constantly outmaneuvered, outguessed and outshot by Trabert. He showed little that would make him a serious threat against Aussies Ken Rosewall, Lew Hoad or Rex Hartwig.

Chiefs Torment League Leaders

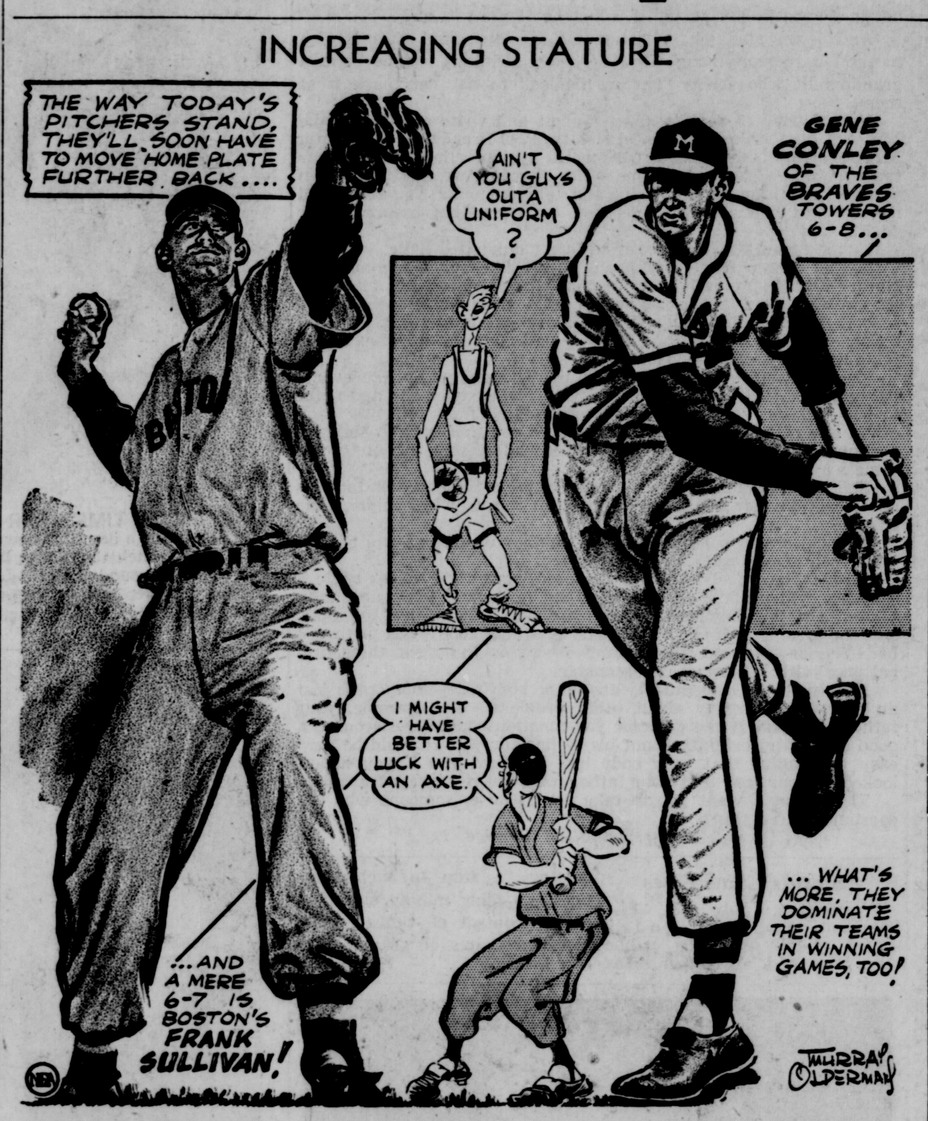

(By the Associated Press)

The second division teams in the International League have been ganging up on the defending champion Toronto Maple Leafs, and the Syracuse Chiefs have become their main tormenters of late.

The Chiefs banged out a 4-2 and 5-2 doubleheader victory over the league leaders yesterday to make it five out of six in a current eight-game home and home series. While the Leafs were taking their double shellacking, the Montreal Royals and Havana Sugar Kings each gained a game on Toronto by dividing a twin-bill. The Royals won the opener 4-0 and the Cubans came back to take the seven inning nightcap 6-1.

In other games, the Richmond Virginians swept a doubleheader from the Buffalo Bisons 6-3 and 11-3. The Rochester Red Wings, after losing three straight to the Columbus Jets, came back to salvage the second game of a twin-bill 5-3, after dropping the opener 6-2.

Gil Kelder Jr. Cops Second 'DeWitt 300'

Leads All Way In Annual Swimming Race

Woody Prokrash, Of Newburgh, 2nd

Gil Kelder Jr., the swimming wizard from Rosendale, joined the select group of two-time winners of the "DeWitt 300" classic Sunday.

Taking the lead from the starting flag, the Rosendale flash was ahead all the way to score a brilliant victory in the annual DeWitt Lake race before a large crowd.

Veteran Woody Prokrash of Newburgh pressed Kelder in the stretch but the county ace was able to maintain a two to three-length lead down to the wire.

Prokrash was in fourth place when passing the float about 40 yards from the finish. He made his bid at this point, passing Joe Heidcamp and then John Weekly who was holding down second place.

HEIDCAMP rallied with a sudden burst of speed to overcome Weekly by three strokes to take third place, about two lengths behind Prokrash.

Only ten yards separated the four top finishers in the last 20 yards. Observers described the race as one of the finest in years.

The annual events for boys were also closely contested. Brian Keyes and James Dempsey of Kingston and Don Presutti of Newburgh were among the winners. The latter copped the 50 and 100 yard events for boys 16 and over.

The summaries:

50 yard swim—boys 12 and 13—1. Brian Keyes, DeWitt Lake; 2. William McDermott, Colonial Gardens; 3. William Niles, Kingston.

50 yard swim—boys 14 and 15—1. James Dempsey, DeWitt Lake; 2. Terry Curtis, Kingston; 3. Marvin Engle, Kingston.

50 yard swim—boys 16 and over—1. Don Presutti, Newburgh; 2. Woody Prokrash, Newburgh; 3. John Weekly, Kingston.

100 yards—boys 16 and over—1. Don Presutti, Newburgh; 2. Woody Prokrash, Newburgh; 3. John Weekly, Kingston.

Lou Schafer of the YMCA acted as starter and referee.

St. Mary's Juniors Capture CYO Title

St. Mary's CYO juniors captured the Ulster county championship Saturday with a 7-0 victory over Immaculate Conception. The team, which plays Manhattan at a future date, was unbeaten this season. They meet the winner of the Bronx-New Jersey game for the New York state CYO title.

Grays Hurlers Wins With Pitch

By The Associated Press

Ron Sheetz of the Eastern League Williamsport Grays has joined the select group of pitchers who have won a game with a single pitch.

One throw was all he delivered in yesterday's game with the Johnstown Johnnies, which his team won 5-4. It got him his sixth victory against eight losses.

He came on in the top of the ninth to relive hurler Myron Hoffman, who had retired the first two men in the inning and then had run into trouble. Successive batters had gotten a walk and two singles, turning the Grays 4-3 edge into a 4-4 tie with two men on base.

THE SINGLE pitch was to Earl Willis, who sent a grounder to Dale Coogan for the third out.

The game then ended when Williamsport's leadoff batter, Bill Onuska, connected for a homer.

In other games yesterday the league-leading Reading Indians knocked Allentown pitcher Dick Ricketts out of the box in the eighth, inflicting the second straight defeat, 5-4, on the former Duquesne basketball star.

Binghamton and Elmira split a double header at Binghamton. The Trips took the opener 9-6 and the Pioneers the nightcap 6-3. The Schenectady Blue Jays shut out the Albany Senators 6-0 at Schenectady.

Ted Williams has been averaging one home run per nine trips to the plate this season.

Tribe's Relief Aces Spark Surge to Top

By JOE REICHLER
(By the Associated Press)

Cleveland's defending champion Indians, supported by baseball's best bullpen, appear to be poised for the stretch run which they hope will bring them their second successive American League pennant.

Eight games off the pace three weeks ago, the stubborn Redmen were within one game of the top today following a streak that has produced 15 victories in their last 22 game, the last five of them in a row.

Cleveland won two from Baltimore yesterday 5-1 and 5-2 and once again it was the brilliant relief pitching of Ray Narleski and Don Mossi that cemented the victories.

THE NEW YORK Yankees regained first place with a 7-3 and 2-0 doubleheader victory over Kansas City to end an alarming downhill slide that had brought 13 defeats in the last 18 games. The twin triumphs boosted them to a full game lead over the Indians and Chicago White Sox, who were held to a split by the fouth place Boston Red Sox. The White Sox, who started the day in first place, three percentage points above the Yankees, shut out the Red Sox 4-0 in the opener behind the seven-hit pitching of Billy Pierce but Boston struck back with a 2-1 victory behind Willard Nixon to stay right in there, only four games off the pace.

Detroit's fifth place Tigers, who also have pennant ambitions, remained 7½ games behind the top despite a split with Washington. The Bengals pounded out a 12-hit, 7-3 first game victory but were blanked 3-0 with seven hits by Washington rookie Ted Abernathy in the nightcap.

BROOKLYN'S runaway Dodgers still owned their comfortable 13½ bulge over runner-up Milwaukee and their 15-game margin over the third place New York Giants.

Although outhit 29 to 12 in the twin bill, the Dodgers got away with a split against the Braves, winning by 9-7 and losing 9-2. The Braves clubbed Dodger pitching for 53 hits, including 10 home runs, in the four-game series but left Brooklyn with no more than a split.

Late inning home runs by Bobby Hofman and Willie Mays (No. 30) earned Johnny Antonelli and the Giants a 4-1 decision after Cincinnati had won the opener 6-4 to snap a seven-game losing streak. Wally Post's 25th homer with two on and Ted Kluszewski's 32nd four-bagger featured the Reds' triumph.

Philadelphia's onrushing Phillies made it 15 wins in their last 16 games, sweeping a pair from St. Louis 6-5 and 3-0. Rain ended the second game after six innings.

DICK HALL, who broke in with Pittsburgh as an infielder and outfielder, struck out 11 in his major league pitching debut as the Pirates swept both ends of a doubleheader from Chicago's fading Cubs 12-5 and 2-1.

Home runs by Detroit's Al Kaline (No. 22), Earl Torgeson and Jimmy Delsing crushed the Nats in the opener. Eddi Yost and Clint Courtney rapped three hits apiece and scored once each in Washington's second game victory.

The Dodgers saved Don Newcombe, their 16-1 pitcher, from an almost certain defeat, coming up with seven runs in the sixth to overcome a 6-2 deficit. The Braves had pounded Newcombe for 11 hits and six runs before chasing him in the third.

Rookie Don Bessent, who joined the Dodgers eight days ago, posted his third victory without a defeat in relief. Henry Aaron drove in four Milwaukee runs with a triple and his 22nd home run to give rookie Ray Crone his fifth victory, a neat four-hitter, in the second game.

Legion Juniors Stop Albany, 3-0, Win District 3 Crown

Down Catskill, 8-3, In Semi-final Contest

Thanks to some great pitcing by Bob Maines and Lorenzo "Rennie" Giannuzzi, the American Legion Junior baseball team today reigns as New York State District 3 champions.

The Old Capital Motors squad took the clincher yesterday at Albany's Hawkins, 3-0, behind the four-hit pitching of Bob Maines to complete a string of three impressive victories in three straight days.

In the semi-final struggle Saturday afternoon, Giannuzzi stopped Catskill, 8-3, with a three-hitter. Friday night in the first game of the District 3 playoffs, Kingston clubbed Eldred, the Sullivan county winners, by the fantastic score of 31-0. Maines and Bob Short shared the pitching chores and yielded only two hits between them.

The next stop for Manager Tommy Maines' tossers in their quest for state honors is a duel with Schenectady Friday night. The site of this state quarter-final contest has not been decided.

Maines went all the way in the title game yesterday. He was never in trouble. The ace lefthander struck out 14 men and walked three. He also chipped in with two of his team's five hits off losing pitcher Les VanPatten.

RONNIE ASHDOWN, Kingston catcher, also played a vital role. Ronnie picked a runner off first base on one occasion and on another he pegged out a man trying to steal second. The local backstop got two hits.

Effective pitching was also the big reason behind Kingston's win over Catskill in the semi-final. Lorenzo "Renny" Giannuzzi was the winner of this one, allowing only three hits in the six innings he worked. Maines pitched the seventh frame.

The locals got 12 hits in this encounter, with Ashdown, Maines, Eric Blackwell, Bill Cragin and Ronnie Ferraro swatting two apiece.

Kingston's scoring against Albany came at the extremes of the game—the first and final innings.

After Ashdown had been retired in the first, Joe Hoffman beat out an infield roller. Blackwell made the second out on a fly to center.

WITH SKIP Broadhead at bat Hoffman stole second. Brodhead tapped a roller to short for what should have been the third out, but Albany's Bruce Walsh sailed his throw over first base.

Hoffman scored on the play and Brodhead ended up on second. Skip took third on a passed ball and scored when Maines singled to right.

Ferraro tallied in the seventh. He worked Van Patten for a walk and was sacrified to second by Johnny Culjak. Ashdown socked a double to left to bring in the run. Ronnie got no further, being tagged after a rundown between second and third when Hoffman hit a grounder.

Giannuzzi fanned and walked four Catskill players. He gave up runs in the first, third and sixth frames. Dave Hitchcock started for Catskill and lasted two and two-thirds innings. He was the loser. Bill Peterson finished.

KINGSTON WENT ahead and stayed ahead with three in the bottom of the frame.

Ashdown walked, stole second and came home on Hoffman's two-bagger. Hoffman, taking third on a wild pitch, scored when Blackwell singled. Blackwell came around on a stolen base and Maines' hit to short center.

The locals got a run across on Ashdown's double in the second. Ferraro's triple, Cragan's single and two Catskill errors were instrumental in two Kingston runs in the third.

The locals pounded Peterson for three hits and two runs in the fifth after two were out. Maines had a double and Cragan and Ferraro hit singles.

Giannuzzi got himself in hot water in the fifth, when Catskill loaded the bases with one away. But "Renny" got Bill Stafford out on a high popup to Ashdown and then the Kingston lefty fanned Roscoe Lacy to end the threat.

Faulk-Jameson Team Cops Hot Spring Golf

Hot Springs, Va., July 25 (AP)—Betty Jameson of San Antonio, Tex., and Mary Lena Faulk, of Thomasville, Ga., posted a two-under-par 72 here yesterday to win top prize money in the $6,500 four-ball Hot Springs womens' golf tournament.

Their 72-hole total of 280 was three strokes better than that scored by the second place team of Beverly Hanson of Indio, Calif., and Mickey Wright, of Lajolla, Calif.

Leo Durocher led the National League shortstops in fielding in 1933, 1936 and 1938.

Trabert's Victory Pleases Cup Moguls; Seixas Worries Them

Philadelphia, July 25 (AP)—U. S. Davis Cup leaders wore broad smiles today after another superlative performance by Tony Trabert and his broad hint that he'd like to remain in the amateur tennis ranks.

The 24-year-old Cincinnati resident needed only 53 minutes yesterday to dispose of Cup teammate Vic Seixas 6-1, 6-2, 6-3, in winning the Pennsylvania Lawn Tennis championship. He appeared in top form for the upcoming U. S. championship and Davis Cup competitions.

IN ACCEPTING the championship cup at the Merion Cricket Club, Tony announced "one of these days I hope to come back to play at Merion again." The club hosts only amateur tournaments.

But if Trabert's performance brought smiles to the Davis Cup fathers, they must have been at least a little worried by the play of Seixas, defending U. S. titlist and the probable second U. S. representative against the Australian challenge for the cup.

Siexas was constantly outmaneuvered, outguessed and outshot by Trabert. He showed little that would make him a serious threat against Aussies Ken Rosewall, Lew Hoad or Rex Hartwig.

Chiefs Torment League Leaders

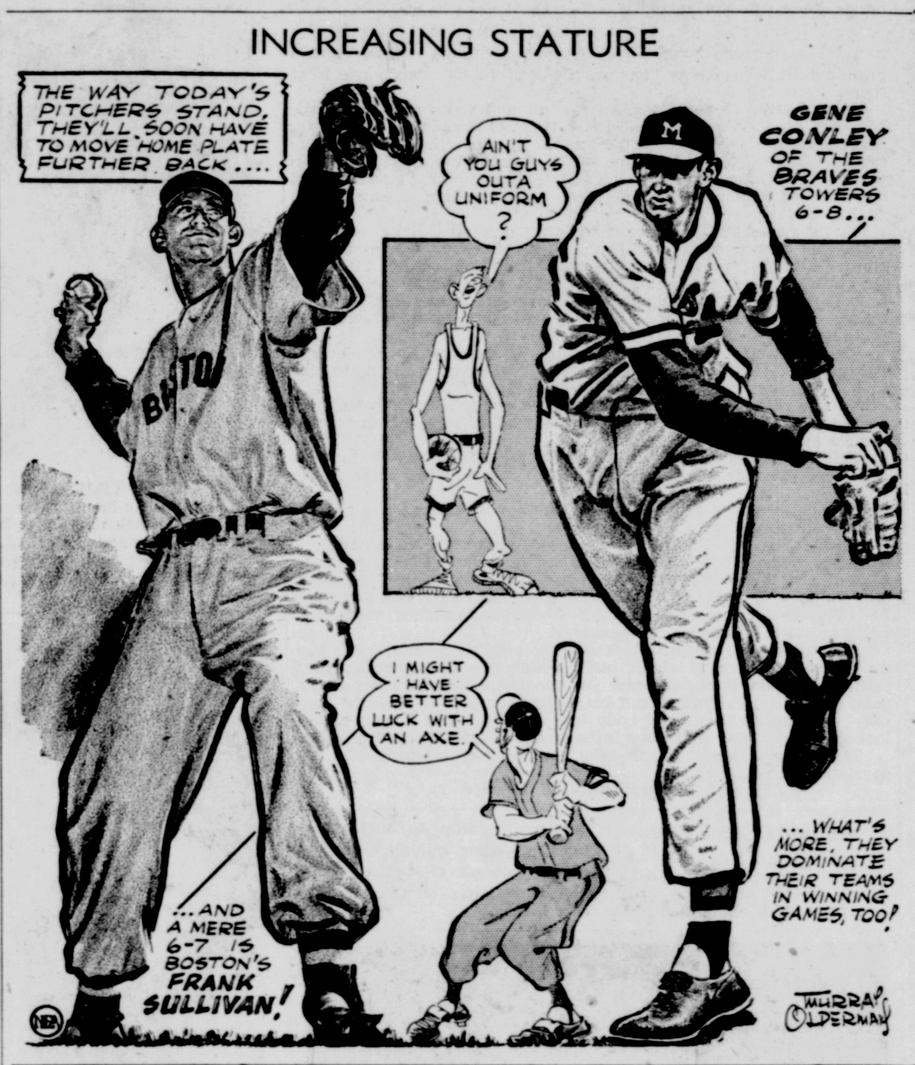

(By the Associated Press)

The second division teams in the International League have been ganging up on the defending champion Toronto Maple Leafs, and the Syracuse Chiefs have become their main tormenters of late.

The Chiefs banged out a 4-2 and 5-2 doubleheader victory over the league leaders yesterday to make it five out of six in a current eight-game home and home series. While the Leafs were taking their double shellacking, the Montreal Royals and Havana Sugar Kings each gained a game on Toronto by dividing a twin-bill. The Royals won the opener 4-0 and the Cubans came back to take the seven inning nightcap 6-1.

In other games, the Richmond Virginians swept a doubleheader from the Buffalo Bisons 6-3 and 11-3. The Rochester Red Wings, after losing three straight to the Columbus Jets, came back to salvage the second game of a twin-bill 5-3, after dropping the opener 6-2.

Gil Kelder Jr. Cops Second 'DeWitt 300'

Leads All Way In Annual Swimming Race

Woody Prokrash, Of Newburgh, 2nd

Gil Kelder Jr., the swimming wizard from Rosendale, joined the select group of two-time winners of the "DeWitt 300" classic Sunday.

Taking the lead from the starting flag, the Rosendale flash was ahead all the way to score a brilliant victory in the annual DeWitt Lake race before a large crowd.

Veteran Woody Prokrash of Newburgh pressed Kelder in the stretch but the county ace was able to maintain a two to three-length lead down to the wire.

Prokrash was in fourth place when passing the float about 40 yards from the finish. He made his bid at this point, passing Joe Heidcamp and then John Weekly who was holding down second place.

HEIDCAMP rallied with a sudden burst of speed to overcome Weekly by three strokes to take third place, about two lengths behind Prokrash.

Only ten yards separated the four top finishers in the last 20 yards. Observers described the race as one of the finest in years.

The annual events for boys were also closely contested. Brian Keyes and James Dempsey of Kingston and Don Presutti of Newburgh were among the winners. The latter copped the 50 and 100 yard events for boys 16 and over.

The summaries:

50 yard swim—boys 12 and 13—1. Brian Keyes, DeWitt Lake; 2. William McDermott, Colonial Gardens; 3. William Niles, Kingston.

50 yard swim—boys 14 and 15—1. James Dempsey, DeWitt Lake; 2. Terry Curtis, Kingston; 3. Marvin Engle, Kingston.

50 yard swim—boys 16 and over—1. Don Presutti, Newburgh; 2. Woody Prokrash, Newburgh; 3. John Weekly, Kingston.

100 yards—boys 16 and over—1. Don Presutti, Newburgh; 2. Woody Prokrash, Newburgh; 3. John Weekly, Kingston.

Lou Schafer of the YMCA acted as starter and referee.

St. Mary's Juniors Capture CYO Title

St. Mary's CYO juniors captured the Ulster county championship Saturday with a 7-0 victory over Immaculate Conception. The team, which plays Manhattan at a future date, was unbeaten this season. They meet the winner of the Bronx-New Jersey game for the New York state CYO title.

Grays Hurlers Wins With Pitch

By The Associated Press

Ron Sheetz of the Eastern League Williamsport Grays has joined the select group of pitchers who have won a game with a single pitch.

One throw was all he delivered in yesterday's game with the Johnstown Johnnies, which his team won 5-4. It got him his sixth victory against eight losses.

He came on in the top of the ninth to relive hurler Myron Hoffman, who had retired the first two men in the inning and then had run into trouble. Successive batters had gotten a walk and two singles, turning the Grays 4-3 edge into a 4-4 tie with two men on base.

THE SINGLE pitch was to Earl Willis, who sent a grounder to Dale Coogan for the third out.

The game then ended when Williamsport's leadoff batter, Bill Onuska, connected for a homer.

In other games yesterday the league-leading Reading Indians knocked Allentown pitcher Dick Ricketts out of the box in the eighth, inflicting the second straight defeat, 5-4, on the former Duquesne basketball star.

Binghamton and Elmira split a double header at Binghamton. The Trips took the opener 9-6 and the Pioneers the nightcap 6-3. The Schenectady Blue Jays shut out the Albany Senators 6-0 at Schenectady.

Ted Williams has been averaging one home run per nine trips to the plate this season.

Tribe's Relief Aces Spark Surge to Top

By JOE REICHLER
(By the Associated Press)

Cleveland's defending champion Indians, supported by baseball's best bullpen, appear to be poised for the stretch run which they hope will bring them their second successive American League pennant.

Eight games off the pace three weeks ago, the stubborn Redmen were within one game of the top today following a streak that has produced 15 victories in their last 22 game, the last five of them in a row.

Cleveland won two from Baltimore yesterday 5-1 and 5-2 and once again it was the brilliant relief pitching of Ray Narleski and Don Mossi that cemented the victories.

THE NEW YORK Yankees regained first place with a 7-3 and 2-0 doubleheader victory over Kansas City to end an alarming downhill slide that had brought 13 defeats in the last 18 games. The twin triumphs boosted them to a full game lead over the Indians and Chicago White Sox, who were held to a split by the fouth place Boston Red Sox. The White Sox, who started the day in first place, three percentage points above the Yankees, shut out the Red Sox 4-0 in the opener behind the seven-hit pitching of Billy Pierce but Boston struck back with a 2-1 victory behind Willard Nixon to stay right in there, only four games off the pace.

Detroit's fifth place Tigers, who also have pennant ambitions, remained 7½ games behind the top despite a split with Washington. The Bengals pounded out a 12-hit, 7-3 first game victory but were blanked 3-0 with seven hits by Washington rookie Ted Abernathy in the nightcap.

BROOKLYN'S runaway Dodgers still owned their comfortable 13½ bulge over runner-up Milwaukee and their 15-game margin over the third place New York Giants.

Although outhit 29 to 12 in the twin bill, the Dodgers got away with a split against the Braves, winning by 9-7 and losing 9-2. The Braves clubbed Dodger pitching for 53 hits, including 10 home runs, in the four-game series but left Brooklyn with no more than a split.

Late inning home runs by Bobby Hofman and Willie Mays (No. 30) earned Johnny Antonelli and the Giants a 4-1 decision after Cincinnati had won the opener 6-4 to snap a seven-game losing streak. Wally Post's 25th homer with two on and Ted Kluszewski's 32nd four-bagger featured the Reds' triumph.

Philadelphia's onrushing Phillies made it 15 wins in their last 16 games, sweeping a pair from St. Louis 6-5 and 3-0. Rain ended the second game after six innings.

DICK HALL, who broke in with Pittsburgh as an infielder and outfielder, struck out 11 in his major league pitching debut as the Pirates swept both ends of a doubleheader from Chicago's fading Cubs 12-5 and 2-1.

Home runs by Detroit's Al Kaline (No. 22), Earl Torgeson and Jimmy Delsing crushed the Nats in the opener. Eddi Yost and Clint Courtney rapped three hits apiece and scored once each in Washington's second game victory.

The Dodgers saved Don Newcombe, their 16-1 pitcher, from an almost certain defeat, coming up with seven runs in the sixth to overcome a 6-2 deficit. The Braves had pounded Newcombe for 11 hits and six runs before chasing him in the third.

Rookie Don Bessent, who joined the Dodgers eight days ago, posted his third victory without a defeat in relief. Henry Aaron drove in four Milwaukee runs with a triple and his 22nd home run to give rookie Ray Crone his fifth victory, a neat four-hitter, in the second game.

American and Nationals, Saugerties, Capture LL Openers

Walden Takes Thriller OverEsopusLegion,1-0; Pine Bush Trips Jaycee

Airtight pitching and some hefty hitting moved two Kingston teams along in the District 4 tournament at the Little League Stadium Saturday.

The Kingston American League All-Stars routed Kerhonkson, 10-3, as Ronnie Secreto fired a two-hitter. The local National Leaguers took the measure of Fallsburgh, 13-2, with Horace Walker and Bill Huber limiting the opposition to four hits.

The other Kingston entry, the Jaycee League team, was soundly whipped by Pine Bush, 15-3, at Port Ewen. Walden was the other winner at Port Ewen, edging the Esopus Legion squad in a 1-0 thriller.

In a single game at Saugerties, the home team decisioned Ellenville, 8-4.

Here's the lineup for the second round of play:

TONIGHT. Kingston Americans vs. Pine Bush at LL Stadium, 6:15 o'clock.

TUESDAY. Kingston Nationals vs. Walden at Port Ewen, 6:15 o'clock; Glasco vs. Highland at Saugerties, 6:15 o'clock.

WEDNESDAY. Saugerties vs. winner of Kingston Nationals-Walden game.

Secreto had Kerhonkson under his domination from start to finish. He struck out 10 men and walked two. Ronnie fanned the side in the second and third innings.

MIKE CARPINO belted a home run for Kingston. Tom Ashdown, Garry Barnes and Walt Harder clipped two hits apiece off loser Vic D'Alessio.

The Nationals were behind until the fourth inning, when they exploded for eight runs. This gave the victory to Huber, who didn't allow a hit while pitching the last three innings.

Dennis Fairbrother took the loss. He and reliefer Mark Wiles were combed for 11 hits. Joe Cavano, Pete Brennan and Bill Murphy each had two safeties for the winners.

Bob Kunis homered for Fallsburgh in the third inning.

The Jaycee players got only six hits off Pine Bush moundsman Jim Gehr. Dan Van Wagenen had a pair.

JIM BURNS WAS the starter and loser. He lasted three and one-third frames. Don Hughes took over and lasted one and one-third. Van Wagenen finished.

Charley Manco and Ed Weed collected four hits each for the winners. Jack Hansen chipped in with three.

Ed Nembhardt lost a heartbreaker at Port Ewen. He had a no-hitter going in the sixth inning when Walden erupted.

Mickey Palmer led off with a single, Walden's first hit. Nembhardt struck out the next two but walked Ronnie Lare.

Palmer scooted to third on a wild pitch. Terry Terwilliger tapped a roller and Palmer charged home, just beating the throw.

Esopus' poor base-running ruined its chances in the third inning.

NEMBHARDT HAD 10 strikeouts. Winning pitcher Howie Silkworth, who also allowed only two hits, fanned five.

Barry Wolven and Bob Whitaker combined to give Saugerties Lions Club All Stars a decisive 8-4 victory over Ellenville.

Wolven permitted only four hits and struck out 10. Whitaker blasted two singles, a double and homer in four trips for a perfect "4 for 4" day. Bob Eckhoff, Ellenville's starting pitcher, slugged a homer.

Poirer Resumes Against Perez; Pastrano Starts

(By the Associated Press)

Gene Poirier, who was making a strong run for "Rookie of the Year" honors until he was knocked out by Argentina's Oscar Pita in a sensational fight, starts all over again tonight against Danny Jo Perez .

Poirier's knockout by Pita at St. Nicholas Arena, June 20 was called "fight of the year" by many writers. The Niagara Falls welter led on all scoreboards and had only to finish the 10 rounds to be the winner. Instead he wore himself out and was unable to stand up under Pita's heavy return fire in the eighth round.

In tonight's show at St. Nick's (Dumont-TV), Poirier meets Perez, a New Yorker who fought a draw with Orlando Zuleta and lost a decision to Frankie Ryff in 1955 starts.

AFTER SUGAR Ray Robinson's split-decision victory over Rocky Castellani in San Francisco, many boxing fans are wondering why Robinson doesn't box Ralph (Tiger) Jones before he talks about a middleweight title bout with Bobo Olson.

Sugar Ray never looked worse than he did against Jones in their Chicago match, won by the Tiger from Yonkers, N. Y.

Gossip from the coast say Olson-Robinson for the title in October.

Willie Pastrano, recent winner over Joey Maxim, meets Chuck Speiser, former Michigan State boxer, in the Wednesday show (radio-TV-ABC) at Chicago.

On the strength of the Maxim decision, Pastrano is favored over the former collegian.

BOBO OLSON has an Aug. 13 date at Portland, Ore., against an unnamed opponent. He was to have fought Moses Ward but the Detroit middleweight was knocked out last week.

The Portland promoter is trying to convince Castellani to take the over-the-weight match.

Chuck Davy is coming back to the ring to meet Pat Manzi of Syracuse at Saginaw, Mich., Aug. 22 . . . Chico Vejar to face Vic Cardell at Hartford Aug. 2.

The Uncle Sams of Paterson, N. J., took undisputed possession of second place in the New York-New Jersey Semi-Pro League by thumping the Colonials, 9 to 0, Saturday night at Dietz Stadium.

JACK ROBINSON, a slick throwing right hander, checked Manager Fred Davi's tossers on five hits. He walked only one batter and was backed up by four double plays.

Kingston's game at the Newburgh Jewels Sunday was halted by rain in the top of the fourth. The Jewels, behind Corky Mullins were leading 2-1. Don Kilbreth, of Meriden, Conn., was toiling for the Colonials. The game was re-scheduled for next Sunday.

Robinson got all the working margin he needed on the second pitch of the game when Rudy Kloss blasted one of Ralph Dammier's serves onto the bank in left center for a home run.

THE UNCLE SAMS picked up a pair in that frame and then took advantage of a Colonial defensive collapse to score seven runs in the fourth. Four of the runs were unearned. Dammier worked eight innings, with Frank Reis pitching the ninth.

No other games were scheduled in the league over the weekend. The Uncle Sams now lead Poughkeepsie by a single game.

Plan Alaska Drive

Long Beach, Calif., July 25 (AP)—Two housewives who've just driven a 1902 Sears-Roebuck motor buggy here from Pennsylvania now plan to pilot it to Alaska. The two-cylinder, eight-horsepower horseless carriage arrived a week ago yesterday with Mrs. Kitty Ruth Partridge, 41, Long Beach, and Mrs. Margaret Wandbaugh, 42, of nearby Compton. "Family tradition," was Mrs. Partridge's explanation of the 26-day drive from York, Pa., where she and Mrs. Wandbaugh were childhood chums. Her father, J. J. Ruth, of York, drove the car across country and back in 1948. Her late great uncle, Marcellus Diehl, of York, drove it to San Francisco, she said, about 1906.

Hialeah's 1956 racing season will run from Jan. 17 through March 2.

MONEY IN BANKS—Ernie Banks gives the Chicago Cubs the baseball jewel that is a shortstop who swats the ball for distance. The 24-year-old Dallas product promises to manufacture 40 or more home runs, has had three with the bases full. He is equally accomplished in the field, a whiz on the double play, runs the bases well and knows how to hit the dirt.

Brazilian Upsets Hoad in Cup Play

Louisville, July 25 (AP)—Australia's crack tennis team moved on to Montreal today, still hot in pursuit of the Davis Cup despite a surprise of top drawer stature that saw Lew Hoad tumbled by a virtual unknown.

The strange entry in tennis records was provided by tiny Ronald Moreira of Brazil, who pulled the rare feat of taking the powerful Hoad in straight sets, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4 in yesterday's wind-up of the American zone cup semifinals.

Australia's final margin in the semifinals was 4-1 after Ken Rosewall of the Aussies blasted Brazilian Capt. Bob Falkenburg, 6-2, 6-2, 6-3.

Canada is the next opponent for Australia this weekend at Montreal. If victorious, it then meets Japan and finally the European champs before going against the United States.

Jaycee Golf Starts

Elmira, July 25 (AP)—New York state's "young set" tees off here today as the annual State Junior Chamber of Commerce championship tourney gets under way at the Mark Twain Country Club. The other Kingston entry, the Jaycee League team, was soundly whipped by Pine Bush, 15-3, at Port Ewen. Walden was the other winner at Port Ewen, edging the Esopus Legion squad in a 1-0 thriller.

TUESDAY. Kingston Nationals vs. Walden at Port Ewen, 6:15 o'clock; Glasco vs. Highland at Saugerties, 6:15 o'clock.

Bob Kunis homered for Fallsburgh in the third inning.

The Jaycee players got only six hits off Pine Bush moundsman Jim Gehr. Dan Van Wagenen had a pair.

JIM BURNS WAS the starter and loser. He lasted three and one-third frames. Don Hughes took over and lasted one and one-third. Van Wagenen finished.

Charley Manco and Ed Weed collected four hits each for the winners. Jack Hansen chipped in with three.

Ed Nembhardt lost a heartbreaker at Port Ewen. He had a no-hitter going in the sixth inning when Walden erupted.

Mickey Palmer led off with a single, Walden's first hit. Nembhardt struck out the next two but walked Ronnie Lare.

Palmer scooted to third on a wild pitch. Terry Terwilliger tapped a roller and Palmer charged home, just beating the throw.

Esopus' poor base-running ruined its chances in the third inning.

NEMBHARDT HAD 10 strikeouts. Winning pitcher Howie Silkworth, who also allowed only two hits, fanned five.

Barry Wolven and Bob Whitaker combined to give Saugerties Lions Club All Stars a decisive 8-4 victory over Ellenville.

Wolven permitted only four hits and struck out 10. Whitaker blasted two singles, a double and homer in four trips for a perfect "4 for 4" day. Bob Eckhoff, Ellenville's starting pitcher, slugged a homer.

Poirer Resumes Against Perez; Pastrano Starts

(By the Associated Press)

Gene Poirier, who was making a strong run for "Rookie of the Year" honors until he was knocked out by Argentina's Oscar Pita in a sensational fight, starts all over again tonight against Danny Jo Perez .

Poirier's knockout by Pita at St. Nicholas Arena, June 20 was called "fight of the year" by many writers. The Niagara Falls welter led on all scoreboards and had only to finish the 10 rounds to be the winner. Instead he wore himself out and was unable to stand up under Pita's heavy return fire in the eighth round.

In tonight's show at St. Nick's (Dumont-TV), Poirier meets Perez, a New Yorker who fought a draw with Orlando Zuleta and lost a decision to Frankie Ryff in 1955 starts.

AFTER SUGAR Ray Robinson's split-decision victory over Rocky Castellani in San Francisco, many boxing fans are wondering why Robinson doesn't box Ralph (Tiger) Jones before he talks about a middleweight title bout with Bobo Olson.

Sugar Ray never looked worse than he did against Jones in their Chicago match, won by the Tiger from Yonkers, N. Y.

Gossip from the coast say Olson-Robinson for the title in October.

Willie Pastrano, recent winner over Joey Maxim, meets Chuck Speiser, former Michigan State boxer, in the Wednesday show (radio-TV-ABC) at Chicago.

On the strength of the Maxim decision, Pastrano is favored over the former collegian.

BOBO OLSON has an Aug. 13 date at Portland, Ore., against an unnamed opponent. He was to have fought Moses Ward but the Detroit middleweight was knocked out last week.

The Portland promoter is trying to convince Castellani to take the over-the-weight match.

Chuck Davy is coming back to the ring to meet Pat Manzi of Syracuse at Saginaw, Mich., Aug. 22 . . . Chico Vejar to face Vic Cardell at Hartford Aug. 2.

Jack Robinson Stops Locals, 9-0 On Five-Hitter

NY-NJ League

The Uncle Sams of Paterson, N. J., took undisputed possession of second place in the New York-New Jersey Semi-Pro League by thumping the Colonials, 9 to 0, Saturday night at Dietz Stadium.

JACK ROBINSON, a slick throwing right hander, checked Manager Fred Davi's tossers on five hits. He walked only one batter and was backed up by four double plays.

Kingston's game at the Newburgh Jewels Sunday was halted by rain in the top of the fourth. The Jewels, behind Corky Mullins were leading 2-1. Don Kilbreth, of Meriden, Conn., was toiling for the Colonials. The game was re-scheduled for next Sunday.

Robinson got all the working margin he needed on the second pitch of the game when Rudy Kloss blasted one of Ralph Dammier's serves onto the bank in left center for a home run.

THE UNCLE SAMS picked up a pair in that frame and then took advantage of a Colonial defensive collapse to score seven runs in the fourth. Four of the runs were unearned. Dammier worked eight innings, with Frank Reis pitching the ninth.

No other games were scheduled in the league over the weekend. The Uncle Sams now lead Poughkeepsie by a single game.

Plan Alaska Drive

Long Beach, Calif., July 25 (AP)—Two housewives who've just driven a 1902 Sears-Roebuck motor buggy here from Pennsylvania now plan to pilot it to Alaska. The two-cylinder, eight-horsepower horseless carriage arrived a week ago yesterday with Mrs. Kitty Ruth Partridge, 41, Long Beach, and Mrs. Margaret Wandbaugh, 42, of nearby Compton. "Family tradition," was Mrs. Partridge's explanation of the 26-day drive from York, Pa., where she and Mrs. Wandbaugh were childhood chums. Her father, J. J. Ruth, of York, drove the car across country and back in 1948. Her late great uncle, Marcellus Diehl, of York, drove it to San Francisco, she said, about 1906.

Hialeah's 1956 racing season will run from Jan. 17 through March 2.

MONEY IN BANKS—Ernie Banks gives the Chicago Cubs the baseball jewel that is a shortstop who swats the ball for distance. The 24-year-old Dallas product promises to manufacture 40 or more home runs, has had three with the bases full. He is equally accomplished in the field, a whiz on the double play, runs the bases well and knows how to hit the dirt.

Brazilian Upsets Hoad in Cup Play

Louisville, July 25 (AP) — Australia's crack tennis team moved on to Montreal today, still hot in pursuit of the Davis Cup despite a surprise of top drawer stature that saw Lew Hoad tumbled by a virtual unknown.

The strange entry in tennis records was provided by tiny Ronald Moreira of Brazil, who pulled the rare feat of taking the powerful Hoad in straight sets, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4 in yesterday's wind-up of the American zone cup semifinals.

Australia's final margin in the semifinals was 4-1 after Ken Rosewall of the Aussies blasted Brazilian Capt. Bob Falkenburg, 6-2, 6-2, 6-3.

Canada is the next opponent for Australia this weekend at Montreal. If victorious, it then meets Japan and finally the European champs before going against the United States.

Following Landry across the finish line were Chuck Irving, Ken Gootermote. Link Pettit, Stretch Van Steenberg and Bob Devine.

Dave Sleight copped the Non-Fords event, with Bud Williams second and Bill Therrion third.

Some early excitement was injected in the program when the exhibit halls on the fair grounds went up in flames just before race time.

The bat which Mickey Mantle used to hit the first home run into the center field bleachers of the Yankee Stadium is now on display in teammate Eddie Robinson's restaurant in Baltimore.

papers said, appears to be ruled by a committee form of leadership.

The pro-empire London Daily Express noted that Pravda, organ of the Russian Communist party, had told its readers that the cold war is ended. The Beaverbrook paper added: "Let the flags fly. Let the bands play. Let the cheers be heard. When Pravda says it, Russia means it."

WEST GERMAN papers were cautious. Volksblatt of Wuerzburg said Russia "found no weak spots in the western side, but unity instead. The Kremlin knows that it will not obtain a European security system based on the partition of Germany."

The independent Wiesbaden Kurier said 'the Soviets talked about nearly everything but did not give in." But the paper added: "The conference members tacitly agreed that their opinions dissent without enmity and none wants to lead a war."

Australian Foreign Minister Leopold Figl said his government was neither surprised nor disappointed that Geneva did not yield a solution of the world problems. He added that he was convinced "the new trend in world politics which started with the signing of the Austrian treaty will produce further positive results."

GILT-EDGED SECURITY

A gilt-edged security is said to be one that involves no risk to the holder. It got its name from gilt-edged writing paper which was used by aristocrats because it (like the securities named after it) was of the highest quality.

Refuses to Talk

Taipei, Formosa, July 25 (AP)—The captain of the 8,640-ton Soviet tanker Tuapse which was seized by the Nationalist navy June 23, 1954, slammed his door in the faces of newsmen who tried to interview him in southern Formosa today. Capt. Vitaii Arkarevitch Kalinan and 28 others of his crew, one of them a woman, are flying home to Hong Kong tomorrow on the first lap of their journey home. Those repatriates who would talk complained about their long detention. Many of them hid their faces when cameramen tried to photograph them. The Tuapse's political officer said conditions in the first four months were particularly rough. However, the repatriates appeared to be in good physical condition.

Record Payroll at GM

Detroit, July 25 (AP)—General Motors Corp., today reported a record number of employes and an all-time high payroll during both the second quarter and first half of 1955. GM said its worldwide employment averaged 624,954 and its payrolls totaled $1,563,000,000 in this year's first six months. U. S. employment for the period averaged 408,933. Weekly earnings of U. S. employes averaged $103.09, compared with $89.81 in the first half of 1954, the company said. The average work week advanced from 40.1 hours to 43.5. GM noted its records were achieved despite a 25 per cent drop in defense work, compared with 1954's first half.

Japs Plan Reactor

Tokyo, July 25 (AP)—Japan is planning to build a multi-purpose 10,000 kilowatt experimental atomic reactor at a cost of $200,000 to $250,000, the Economic Planning Board said today. A board official told the Federation of Economic Organization, Japan's equivalent of the U. S. National Association of Manufacturers, that the government would put up some of the cost and seek donations for the balance. He did not specify percentages. Under current plans, the official said, the reactor would use heavy water and natural uranium. He estimated it would take four years to build.

Long Strike Ends

Los Angeles, July 25 (AP)—The clang of trolleys and the roar of buses echoed through this city's streets today for the first time in 34 days as the longest transit strike in local history ended. Operators voted 1,152 to 493 at a mass meeting yesterday to terminate Los Angeles' costliest transportation tie-up. The strike which forced 900,000 daily riders to find other transportation, cost bus and trolley operators an estimated $710,000 in lost pay, and the Los Angeles Transit Lines $2,345,000 in lost revenue.

Prefer Foreign Butter

Washington, July 25 (AP)—The army told Rep. Norblad (R.-Ore.) today the reason it doesn't sell American butter exclusively in its oversease commissaries is that some patrons prefer foreign brands.

Farm Visit

many miles to greet the Russians.

The correspondent quoted "John Stokes, with whom we spoke while visiting Richard Alleman's farm," as saying that American farmers need peace just as the Russian peasant needs it.

Litoshko said the American papers were reporting the warm welcome being given the American farm delegation in the Soviet Union.

HE MENTIONED the recent visit of the Soviet farm delegation to the farm of Charles Hearst of Cedar Falls, Iowa, one of the American farmers now in Russia, and added:

"His hospitable wife asked us through Pravda to convey her heartfelt greetings to her husband and to tell him the family and farm are all right."

Litoshko added that the "friendly, happy reception shown the Soviet farm delegation by the American people is the best proof of the necessity of strengthening the ties of friendship, cooperation and mutual understanding in all fields—the political, commercial, and cultural life of the two great countries."

The Soviet press said the American farm delegation in its tour of southern European Russia were visiting schools and hospitals as well as farms, and asking searching questions dealing with farmers' incomes and how much they subscribe to state loans.

Two Held in Death

Newport Beach, Calif., July 25 (AP)—Two men are in jail in the fatal beating of a college youth they said they found peeking into a window of their vacation apartment, police report. Dead is Irving Richard Perrett, 21, Los Angeles, a student at Claremont, Calif., men's college. Booked on suspicion of manslaughter yesterday were Robert H. Laverne, 33, a building contractor, of San Gabriel, and William D. Smith, 29, a salesman, of Costa Mesa. Police quoted the two as saying they found Perrett looking into the window of the rented apartment while their wives were preparing for a midnight swim early yesterday.

Germans on Duty

Paris, July 25 (AP)—The first group of West German officers will take up their duties at NATO's European headquarters Wednesday. Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, NATO's European commander, announced today the six will form a special staff group reporting directly to his chief of staff. Later the Germans will be integrated into the various sections of the headquarters according to their special qualifications. A similar first group of West German officers will report to NATO's central European headquarters at Fontainbleu Thursday. French Marshal Alphonse Juin is the central European commander.

Acquitted on 2 Counts

Ft. Bragg, N. C., July 25 (AP)—A Ft. Bragg sergeant charged with aiding the enemy while a prisoner of war in Korea was acquitted Saturday on the two remaining counts against him. When the general court martial opened last week, Sgt. John L. Tyler, 25, of Moundsville, W. Va., was charged on nine counts of collaboration. The major charge of collaboration against Tyler, a POW from June, 1951, to August, 1953, was dismissed when the trial opened. Two other charges were dismissed by the law officer, Maj. C. E. Noell, because of lack of evidence.

Anderson Has Doubts

Washington, July 25 (AP)—Sen. Anderson (D.-N.M.) says he has doubts whether the United States is better able than Russia to deliver nuclear bombs to potential wartime targets. Anderson, chairman of the Senate-House Committee on Atomic Energy, said yesterday in a CBS television interview: "It's those intercontinental bombers that are going to have to deliver the big bomb. We may be ahead in physicial numbers of atomic and hydrogen bombs, and I'm quite sure we are, but I'm not sure we have the means to drop them in any large superiority."

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Studies Are

study carefully such important proposals as President Eisenhower's plan for an exchange of military blueprints between the United States and Russia, British Prime Minister Eden's plan for limited disarmament in and around Germany, the various plans for new European security arrangements and proposals for removing barriers between Communist and non-Communist countries.

MOST OF these proposals were tossed into the summit conference in the barest outline form, leaving all sorts of questions unanswered. The Eisenhower plan, for example, failed to make clear whether the President included atomic establishments in his own offer to exchange blueprints.

Eden as the conference closed said the heads of government did not set out to make detailed plans but added, "What we have now agreed makes it possible to get trips with the twin problems of the unity of Germany and the security of Europe."

HE SAID there is now a better chance than at any time since the war to "get to work on practical proposals to solve the differences which have divided Europe all these years."

Soviet Premier Bulganin said much patience will be needed in the future discussions, but he expressed the belief the decisions at Geneva "mark the beginning of a new phase in the relations between our countries."

French Premier Faure on his return to Paris put it this way: "We have started on a long and difficult path, but I think firmly that it is a good one."

Aside from the agreement for the future negotiations, western delegates considered that the chief accomplishment of the conference was a beginning toward mutual confidence between the leaders of the west and those of Russia. The impression was strong that each side was persuaded the other neither wants an atomic war nor will risk one.

Record Grant to Cornell

Ithaca, N. Y., July 25 (AP)—A record $9,228,948 was given to Cornell University in 1954-55. President Deane W. Malott announced the figure Saturday and said it compared with the previous high of $7,460,000 reached in 1945-46 and equalled in 1953-54.

President

ion on the summit meeting.

Congressional leaders of both parties were invited to the White House this morning to get a briefing from the President and secretary of state on the Geneva sessions.

Afterward, they spoke on the meeting in such terms as "very satisfactory," "helpful" and "hopeful."

Both House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) and Republican Senate Leader Knowland (Calif) said Eisenhower said he gave "no secret agreements" of any kind at Geneva.

"I think they made a helpful report," Rayburn told reporters. "It was a very satisfactory briefing."

KNOWLAND SAID: "It was the most constructive bipartisan session, I believe, that we have had. The President and the secretary of state made a full report.

"The situation growing out of the conference is hopeful but the problems ahead are not discounted."

Vice President Nixon and 24 members of the Senate and House met with Eisenhower and Dulles for nearly 90 minutes in the White House cabinet room.

Largely, it was the same group which had conferred with the President before his departure for the summit sessions.

Senate and House leaders of both parties were on hand along with senior members of the Foreign Relations, Armed Services and Appropriations Committees.

Senator Clements of Kentucky, the acting Democratic leader, said the President and Dulles "made a very frank report."

Chairman Russell (D-Ga.) of the Senate Armed Services Committee commented he thought "it was the best briefing we ever had."

Chairman Bridges (R-N. H.) of the Senate Republican Policy Committee said the President told the Congressional leaders he is confident future negotiations with the Russians will proceed in a "wholly different atmosphere" than they have in the past.

papers said, appears to be ruled by a committee form of leadership.

The pro-empire London Daily Express noted that Pravda, organ of the Russian Communist party, had told its readers that the cold war is ended. The Beaverbrook paper added: "Let the flags fly. Let the bands play. Let the cheers be heard. When Pravda says it, Russia means it."

WEST GERMAN papers were cautious. Volksblatt of Wuerzburg said Russia "found no weak spots in the western side, but unity instead. The Kremlin knows that it will not obtain a European security system based on the partition of Germany."

The independent Wiesbaden Kurier said 'the Soviets talked about nearly everything but did not give in." But the paper added: "The conference members tacitly agreed that their opinions dissent without enmity and none wants to lead a war."

Australian Foreign Minister Leopold Figl said his government was neither surprised nor disappointed that Geneva did not yield a solution of the world problems. He added that he was convinced "the new trend in world politics which started with the signing of the Austrian treaty will produce further positive results."

Why We Say--

GILT-EDGED SECURITY

A gilt-edged security is said to be one that involves no risk to the holder. It got its name from gilt-edged writing paper which was used by aristocrats because it (like the securities named after it) was of the highest quality.

Refuses to Talk

Taipei, Formosa, July 25 (AP)—The captain of the 8,640-ton Soviet tanker Tuapse which was seized by the Nationalist navy June 23, 1954, slammed his door in the faces of newsmen who tried to interview him in southern Formosa today. Capt. Vitali Arkarevitch Kalinan and 28 others of his crew, one of them a woman, are flying home to Hong Kong tomorrow on the first lap of their journey home. Those repatriates who would talk complained about their long detention. Many of them hid their faces when cameramen tried to photograph them. The Tuapse's political officer said conditions in the first four months were particularly rough. However, the repatriates appeared to be in good physical condition.

Record Payroll at GM

Detroit, July 25 (AP)—General Motors Corp., today reported a record number of employes and an all-time high payroll during both the second quarter and first half of 1955. GM said its worldwide employment averaged 624,954 and its payrolls totaled $1,563,000,000 in this year's first six months. U. S. employment for the period averaged 408,933. Weekly earnings of U. S. employes averaged $103.09, compared with $89.81 in the first half of 1954, the company said. The average work week advanced from 40.1 hours to 43.5. GM noted its records were achieved despite a 25 per cent drop in defense work, compared with 1954's first half.

Japs Plan Reactor

Tokyo, July 25 (AP)—Japan is planning to build a multi-purpose 10,000 kilowatt experimental atomic reactor at a cost of $200,000 to $250,000, the Economic Planning Board said today. A board official told the Federation of Economic Organization, Japan's equivalent of the U. S. National Association of Manufacturers, that the government would put up some of the cost and seek donations for the balance. He did not specify percentages. Under current plans, the official said, the reactor would use heavy water and natural uranium. He estimated it would take four years to build.

Long Strike Ends

Los Angeles, July 25 (AP)—The clang of trolleys and the roar of buses echoed through this city's streets today for the first time in 34 days as the longest transit strike in local history ended. Operators voted 1,152 to 493 at a mass meeting yesterday to terminate Los Angeles' costliest transportation tie-up. The strike which forced 900,000 daily riders to find other transportation, cost bus and trolley operators an estimated $710,000 in lost pay, and the Los Angeles Transit Lines $2,345,000 in lost revenue.

Prefer Foreign Butter

Washington, July 25 (AP)—The army told Rep. Norblad (R.-Ore.) today the reason it doesn't sell American butter exclusively in its oversease commissaries is that some patrons prefer foreign brands.

Farm Visit

many miles to greet the Russians.

The correspondent quoted "John Stokes, with whom we spoke while visiting Richard Alleman's farm," as saying that American farmers need peace just as the Russian peasant needs it.

Litoshko said the American papers were reporting the warm welcome being given the American farm delegation in the Soviet Union.

HE MENTIONED the recent visit of the Soviet farm delegation to the farm of Charles Hearst of Cedar Falls, Iowa, one of the American farmers now in Russia, and added:

"His hospitable wife asked us through Pravda to convey her heartfelt greetings to her husband and to tell him the family and farm are all right."

Litoshko added that the "friendly, happy reception shown the Soviet farm delegation by the American people is the best proof of the necessity of strengthening the ties of friendship, cooperation and mutual understanding in all fields—the political, commercial, and cultural life of the two great countries."

The Soviet press said the American farm delegation in its tour of southern European Russia were visiting schools and hospitals as well as farms, and asking searching questions dealing with farmers' incomes and how much they subscribe to state loans.

Two Held in Death

Newport Beach, Calif., July 25 (AP)—Two men are in jail in the fatal beating of a college youth they said they found peeking into a window of their vacation apartment, police report. Dead is Irving Richard Perrett, 21, Los Angeles, a student at Claremont, Calif., men's college. Booked on suspicion of manslaughter yesterday were Robert H. Laverne, 33, a building contractor, of San Gabriel, and William D. Smith, 29, a salesman, of Costa Mesa. Police quoted the two as saying they found Perrett looking into the window of the rented apartment while their wives were preparing for a midnight swim early yesterday.

Germans on Duty

Paris, July 25 (AP)—The first group of West German officers will take up their duties at NATO's European headquarters Wednesday. Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, NATO's European commander, announced today the six will form a special staff group reporting directly to his chief of staff. Later the Germans will be integrated into the various sections of the headquarters according to their special qualifications. A similar first group of West German officers will report to NATO's central European headquarters at Fontainbleu Thursday. French Marshal Alphonse Juin is the central European commander.

Acquitted on 2 Counts

Ft. Bragg, N. C., July 25 (AP)—A Ft. Bragg sergeant charged with aiding the enemy while a prisoner of war in Korea was acquitted Saturday on the two remaining counts against him. When the general court martial opened last week, Sgt. John L. Tyler, 25, of Moundsville, W. Va., was charged on nine counts of collaboration. The major charge of collaboration against Tyler, a POW from June, 1951, to August, 1953, was dismissed when the trial opened. Two other charges were dismissed by the law officer, Maj. C. E. Noell, because of lack of evidence.

Anderson Has Doubts

Washington, July 25 (AP)—Sen. Anderson (D.-N. M.) says he has doubts whether the United States is better able than Russia to deliver nuclear bombs to potential wartime targets. Anderson, chairman of the Senate-House Committee on Atomic Energy, said yesterday in a CBS television interview: "It's those intercontinental bombers that are going to have to deliver the big bomb. We may be ahead in physicial numbers of atomic and hydrogen bombs, and I'm quite sure we are, but I'm not sure we have the means to drop them in any large superiority."

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Studies Are

study carefully such important proposals as President Eisenhower's plan for an exchange of military blueprints between the United States and Russia, British Prime Minister Eden's plan for limited disarmament in and around Germany, the various plans for new European security arrangements and proposals for removing barriers between Communist and non-Communist countries.

MOST OF these proposals were tossed into the summit conference in the barest outline form, leaving all sorts of questions unanswered. The Eisenhower plan, for example, failed to make clear whether the President included atomic establishments in his own offer to exchange blueprints.

Eden as the conference closed said the heads of government did not set out to make detailed plans but added, "What we have now agreed makes it possible to get trips with the twin problems of the unity of Germany and the security of Europe."

HE SAID there is now a better chance than at any time since the war to "get to work on practical proposals to solve the differences which have divided Europe all these years."

Soviet Premier Bulganin said much patience will be needed in the future discussions, but he expressed the belief the decisions at Geneva "mark the beginning of a new phase in the relations between our countries."

French Premier Faure on his return to Paris put it this way: "We have started on a long and difficult path, but I think firmly that it is a good one."

Aside from the agreement for the future negotiations, western delegates considered that the chief accomplishment of the conference was a beginning toward mutual confidence between the leaders of the west and those of Russia. The impression was strong that each side was persuaded the other neither wants an atomic war nor will risk one.

Record Grant to Cornell

Ithaca, N. Y., July 25 (AP)—A record $9,228,948 was given to Cornell University in 1954-55. President Deane W. Malott announced the figure Saturday and said it compared with the previous high of $7,460,000 reached in 1945-46 and equalled in 1953-54.

President

ion on the summit meeting.

Congressional leaders of both parties were invited to the White House this morning to get a briefing from the President and secretary of state on the Geneva sessions.

Afterward, they spoke on the meeting in such terms as "very satisfactory," "helpful" and "hopeful."

Both House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) and Republican Senate Leader Knowland (Calif) said Eisenhower said he gave "no secret agreements" of any kind at Geneva.

"I think they made a helpful report," Rayburn told reporters. "It was a very satisfactory briefing."

KNOWLAND SAID: "It was the most constructive bipartisan session, I believe, that we have had. The President and the secretary of state made a full report.

"The situation growing out of the conference is hopeful but the problems ahead are not discounted."

Vice President Nixon and 24 members of the Senate and House met with Eisenhower and Dulles for nearly 90 minutes in the White House cabinet room.

Largely, it was the same group which had conferred with the President before his departure for the summit sessions.

Senate and House leaders of both parties were on hand along with senior members of the Foreign Relations, Armed Services and Appropriations Committees.

Senator Clements of Kentucky, the acting Democratic leader, said the President and Dulles "made a very frank report."

Chairman Russell (D-Ga.) of the Senate Armed Services Committee commented he thought "it was the best briefing we ever had."

Chairman Bridges (R-N. H.) of the Senate Republican Policy Committee said the President told the Congressional leaders he is confident future negotiations with the Russians will proceed in a "wholly different atmosphere" than they have in the past.
